Valley Progress Just Starting: Dickinson

Business Plans for Expansion

Experts Are Heard During Workshop

A prosperous and steadily expanding Hudson Valley of tremendous potential was depicted today by State Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson in an address before area merchants and business men attending the Small Business Workshop sponsored by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Dickinson was one of a number of prominent guest experts who spoke during daylong sessions at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Others Heard

Other speakers at dual sessions of the workshop—industrial and retail—which were in progress concurrently this morning were Henry W. Stock, advertising director of Gannett newspapers and the Knickerbocker News, Albany; Floyd E. Ruble, manager of the Watertown Chamber of Commerce; Emanuel M. Fried, manager of the Credit Bureau of Greater New York, New York City; Gustav Koschorreck, district manager of Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., Albany; Andrew V. Ackerman, works manager of Cherry-Burrell Corporation, Little Falls, and James P. Scott, partner of Carrigan, Bottger, Landry and Scott, Syracuse.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang of Kingston brought greetings and described recent developments in this area of the valley. His remarks are carried in a separate story in The Freeman today.

Transportation Aids

Dickinson pointed out that the basis of recent progress in the valley were the construction of highways, the New York State Thruway in particular, which had benefited Ulster County and other parts of the valley tremendously.

He said that new manufacturing plants, industrial parks, shopping centers and office buildings that are springing up throughout the Hudson valley were evidences of the new stimulus to growth.

Vacation resorts have benefited because the Thruway has cut at least an hour's travel from New York City to the mountains, he told local merchants.

The Kingston - Rhinecliff bridge connecting with major routes to the east will aid the development of other markets, Dickinson said.

Only the Beginning

"Make no mistake about it. These signs of progress are only the beginning. Your valley is made increasingly desirable for industrial locations because of these highways."

He also cited river transportation and rail service as factors increasing the attraction of the area to new concerns.

He told his audience the valley faces an undoubtedly steady expansion.

Advertising Suggestions

Stock suggested that retailers ask themselves five questions:

1. Do you advertise consistently?
2. Do you advertise goods for which there is a demand?
3. Does your advertisement take advantage of seasonal demand?
4. Do your sales personnel follow-up your advertising?
5. Do you believe that honesty can be made to pay?

"If your answer to these questions is 'Yes,' you've got the advertising know-how. All you need is wanted merchandise and the home-town newspaper to advertise in and the world will beat a path to your door—at least that part of the world in which you live."

His topic was "Advertising—What to Advertise, Advertising Media, Planning, Follow Through."

Deals With Credit

Fried's remarks dealt with the development of consumer credit in the United States—a constantly expanding phenomeon which accounts for practically half of all retail sales.

Speaking on "Credit and Collections," he said that at present

Stang Stresses Forward Trend

Growing Area Means Communities Must Adopt Modern Ways, Cooperate

No individual, or group, can build a fence around themselves and live alone, Mayor Frederick H. Stang told today's small business workshop here sponsored by the State of New York Department of Commerce with the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce cooperating.

He stressed, too, that expansion calls for a better understanding of business methods and cooperation among adjacent communities, and pointed out that government plays an important part in development at all levels.

The mayor spoke at the noon luncheon, welcoming State Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson and a large turnout of businessmen to Kingston for the workshop program.

Welcomes Group

Mayor Stang said:

"I sincerely welcome the commissioner and all those participating in this workshop. Let me congratulate the Chamber of Commerce and its committees responsible for this evidence of progress.

Kingston and the surrounding area has blossomed forth in the last three or four years where it has become a very important area in the industrial and commercial life of our state. Several things have contributed to that expansion. First the thruway, followed by the coming of IBM and then the opening of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, which forms a connecting link from the great industrial northeast to New York State in the West. We are truly becoming the gateway to Southeastern New York, Jersey and Pennsylvania.

This expansion, however, brings many problems. It calls for a better understanding of business methods and cooperation among the several communities of the area. No longer can

Ulster Trailer Change Satisfies Camp Owners

Amendments to the Town of Ulster trailer camp ordinance which were approved by the town board on September 18, and presented at a public hearing on October 2, have apparently satisfied the objections of trailer camp operators and a rash of actions pending in court are to be dismissed.

Won't Press Motion

Monday in Supreme Court before Justice Donald E. Taylor, John E. Schick, appearing for the firm of Klein and Schick, a motion for preference directed by the Appellate Division, would not be pressed.

Schick said that since the actions had been commenced attacking the constitutionality of the ordinance, certain amendments had been adopted which now makes the ordinance satisfactory to the trailer camp operators whom he represented.

Injunction procedings had been brought to restrain the town officials from enforcing the provisions of the original ordinance pending determination as to its constitutionality.

Fence Main Objection

Principal among the objections was a provision in the original ordinance that camps must be enclosed by a fence and there were other provisions which were attacked as being unreasonable, unnecessary and infringements on the constitutional rights of the property owners. It was held that the cost of erecting a fence about camps would be prohibitive.

In addition to an attack on the constitutionality of the original ordinance, now amended to the satisfaction of the trailer camp operators, there was pending some 20 informations charging camp operators with violation of the ordinance. It was stated that these informations would be withdrawn by The People and prosecution dropped.

Four Arrested

Early in June, and while the action to test the constitutionality of the trailer camp ordinance was pending, four trailer camp operators were arrested for violation of the ordinance. Among them were Mattie Every, 57, of Flatbush Road extension; Arthur C. Granquist, 49, Route 2, Kingston, Onteora Trail camp operator; Anthony S. Cicoria, Sawkill Road operator and Robert D. Mitchell, 40, Trailer Haven on Route 9-W at the East Chester Street by-pass.

As a result of alleged continuing violations an attempt was made to file additional informations against the defendants while they were in the custody of peace officers awaiting transfer to the county jail after a hearing on the original charges.

Kidnap-Slayer Is Hunted in Mexico

ROSWELL, N. M. (AP) — Police searched deep into Mexico today for the kidnap-slayer of a 5-year-old girl, whose unclothed body was found last night in a dump eight miles east of here.

Little Sandra Jo Lucero apparently died from a single stab wound in the heart. The weapon, a screwdriver, lay nearby.

Police Chief Tommy Thompson and Sheriff J. C. Jones said they would file murder charges against Joe Franco, 24, a farm worker with a record of minor scrapes with the law.

Franco, a "friend of the family", has already been charged with kidnaping the child from her home early Sunday. The FBI, whose agents were aiding local lawmen, issued a fugitive warrant for Franco.

His car was found abandoned 200 miles southwest of here in El Paso, Tex., near a bridge across the Rio Grande into Juarez, Mexico. Border patrolmen, FBI agents, Mexican police and New Mexico lawmen swarmed into Mexico in a joint effort to find Franco.

State Training Session Is in Charge of Kramer

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer, as president of the New York State Association of City and Village Clerks, will preside over a training session of fiscal officers, city and village clerks in Albany tomorrow.

The school will be held at the Sheraton-Ten Eyck, Albany, Oct. 9, 10 and 11. The session over which Kramer will preside is due to start at 2 p. m.

Slated for discussion and study will be management of bond and note liabilities, social security coverage for public employes and forclosures of tax leins by action in equity courts.

Kramer, the city's Republican candidate for mayor, was elected earlier in the year to head the state association of city and village clerks.

The training school, which opens tomorrow, is sponsored by the New York State Conference of Mayors, other municipal officers, the New York Society of Municipal Finance Officers, and the association which Kramer heads. It is being held in cooperation with the New York State Department of Audit and Control.

September Span Use Declines

62,795 Vehicles Cross K-R Bridge

Travel over the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge last month was 23,018 vehicles under the August total of 85,813, the New York State Bridge Authority reported today.

All four of the bridges under the authority's control, however, showed a gain of 5.66 per cent over September, 1956. They clocked 698,058 last month and 660,675, a year ago, for a gain of 37,383 vehicles.

Loss at Poughkeepsie

The Mid-Hudson Bridge, Poughkeepsie showed a loss of 8.71 per cent in travel, having clocked 331,115 last month and 362,738, a year ago.

The August high total on the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge was due in part to the Dutchess County Fair at Rhinebeck and to the fact that August is usually a month of high travel on all of the spans.

Other Data

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge, Catskill, clocked 157,872 vehicles last month as against 155,521 a year ago for a gain of 1.51 per cent. The Bear Mountain totals were 146,276 and 142,416 for a gain of 2.71 per cent. The Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge clocked 62,795 vehicles last month.

A drop in travel over the Mid-Hudson Bridge has been attributed, in part, to a change in travel habit by many employes at the Poughkeepsie IBM plant since the opening of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge last Feb. 2.

The Newburgh-Beacon ferry showed an incease of 2.67 per cent. It carried 43,544 vehicles last month and 42,411 a yea ago.

Stolen Goods, Larceny Cited In Indictment

Harry T. Tempelaar, 30, of 143 Clinton Avenue, a suspended police officer, was arraigned under a sealed indictment Monday afternoon in County Court on charges of criminally receiving stolen goods and petit larceny, not unlawful entry.

The charges arise out of loss of property at the Royal Tire Company store, Railroad Avenue, on July 26, and at the Herzog store during the month of October 1956.

Tempelaar, through his counsel John Gotelli, entered a plea of innocent, 20 days was granted for motions and bail was fixed at $500 cash or $1,000 property. The indictment against Tempelaar was one of two sealed bills returned by the grand jury in its final report to the court. The other sealed indictment handed up last week was one charging suspended patrolman Benjamin Osterhoudt Jr., 30, with criminally receiving stolen goods.

Counsel for Tempelaar waived reading the indictment in court at the time of arraignment Monday and a formal plea of innocent was entered to both counts.

Harriman Scored For Liberal Tag Put on Faubus

Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz charged last night that "Governor Harriman made a gratuitous apology for the conduct of Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas" when Governor Harriman characterized the actions of the Arkansas executive as the result of "bad advice."

The Attorney General's remarks were contained in an address delivered Monday night at the annual dinner of the Lincoln Republican League of Monroe County at the Powers Hotel, Rochester.

"Of Governor Faubus, his fellow Governor and fellow Democrat," Attorney General Lefkowitz said, "Governor Harriman had this to say in a radio interview on September 22: 'He's a liberal. I don't understand at all why he did this. . . He must have gotten some bad advice.'

Hurts Own Aspirations

"I submit to you that Governor Harriman in maintaining at this late date that Governor Faubus is a liberal, in spite of every act of his to the contrary, is insulting the intelligence of every right thinking American. In attributing the defiance by Governor Faubus of the court orders to 'bad advice', Governor Harriman is indeed placing a high premium and value on his

Denials Are Mounting Against Faubus Charge

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus today faced a wave of denials—some in bitter language — to his accusation that male soldiers remained in girls' dressing rooms when the students changed to gym clothes at now integrated Central High School.

The White House, the Army and school authorities said there is no truth to the charges.

The White House labeled the claim "completely vulgar" and "completely untrue."

The Army in strong terms denied its troops have invaded the dressing rooms.

A school official termed Faubus' claim "ridiculous."

The governor, told last night of White House reaction, shot back this reply: "What does the White House know about it 2,000 miles away? We'll prove it when the time comes."

A number of Central High girls said they knew nothing about any such trespass into the dressing rooms.

Faubus said his information came from parents.

Troops, sometimes 101st Airborne Division paratroopers and at other times Arkansas National Guardsmen under federal control have protected the nine Negro students inside the building ever since the school was integrated by soldiers Sept. 25.

They accompany the Negroes when they move from class to class but remain outside classroom doors.

The school and campus neighborhood were quiet yesterday. No crowds gathered, no students heckled the Negroes when they entered.

Faubus' charges were made yesterday in a letter to Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, commanding the military units at the school and the reserves nearby. The governor made the letter public.

The general returned the letter unopened, James C. Hagerty presidential press secretary, said. Walker did so, Hagerty said, because it was addressed to "The Commander of the Occupation Forces."

Army Secretary Brucker said in Washington that the letter "has all the earmarks of desperation and is an unworthy attempt to defame our American soldiers. . ."

School Supt. Virgil T. Blossom said "the federal troops are not following the girls into the dressing rooms."

Bank in Mess, Rose's Advice

Falsifications Made in Books While National Examiner Begins Inspection

NEW YORK (AP) — Falsifications in books of the Home National Bank of Ellenville, headed by William R. Rose, were made even while a national bank examiner was beginning the inspection that led to the exposure of a $1,400,000 scandal, a jury before Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld was told today.

Rose, 51, pleaded guilty yesterday to a 17-count indictment charging misapplication of the bank's funds, conspiracy, and making false statements to federal bank officials.

Tells of False Entry

The wintess at the trial of two individuals and three companies also named in the indictment was George A. Monahan, national bank examiner, who told the jury that a falsification that reduced the amount of the discrepancy in the bank's books by about $450,000 was made last Nov. 30, as he began the examination.

Monahan told the jury that as long as "human nature is what it is, it is almost impossible" to determine all the liabilities of the bank.

Yesterday, Monahan testified Rose was overdrawn at the bank to the extent of $5,000.

In 'Hell of a Shape'

Monahan testified that when he went to the bank last Nov. 29 to examine the books Rose told him: "You are going to find things in a hell of a shape."

The co-defendants are Joseph DiCandia, 41, of Cragmoor, president of the Anjopa Paper and Board Co. of Napanoch; Mrs. Margaret Brush, 30, of Accord, bookkeeper of Anjopa; the paper company; the Community Television Corp., and the Dica Paper Mfg. Co. Inc.

Friday Meetings

In his opening talk to the jury, Asst. U. S. Atty. David Jaffe said Rose, DiCandia, and Mrs. Brush met at the bank almost every Friday beginning in the summer of 1951.

He said DiCandia told Rose then that he knew he had no money in the bank. He said Rose told DiCandia checks would be honored and the sum made up in the future.

Jaffe said from then on DiCandia wrote checks without funds and Rose saw to it they were honored. When the over-drafts became too large, a new account was started, he said.

Rose had pleaded innocent previously but changed his plea as the trial was about to start yesterday. He was released in $25,000 bail to be sentenced Oct. 29. He could get up to $90,000 in fines and a maximum of 85 years in prison.

Hopes Are For Quick Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports of additional sightings of the Russian - spawned earth satellite raised hopes today that U. S. scientists might speed up the computing of its precise orbit.

The latest observations showed the satellite was circling the globe right on schedule at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour, although one conflicting set of unofficial caculations showed its speed had dropped to 15,500, possibly indicating the ball might drop from its orbit.

Holds Attention

Radio reception from the satellite was interrupted at times last night. The Russian globe, dubbed "Sputnik" by Soviet authorities, has held the attention of the world since its launching last Friday.

American experts had hoped last night to obtain, by electronic computation, such detailed orbit data as the exact path of the sphere, its location in outer space, and possibly its precise shape.

Data Lacking

That information had been expected from data fed into a giant electronic computer at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Third of Students Absent, Sixth Out in Kerhonkson

A third of the pupils in Ellenville School System and a sixth of those in the Kerhonkson School were absent this morning in what may be the first appearance of Asian flu in Ulster County.

The Ellenville School System has been closed until Monday.

A total of 650 pupils out of 2,007 in Ellenville School and 116 out of 700 in Kerhonkson failed to report for classes today, it was reported by Dr. Dudley Hargrave, Ulster County Health Commissioner.

"There is no way of knowing that this is flu," Dr. Hargrave said. He explained however that the fact it is so sudden and involves so many children "points to Asian flu."

Arrangements are underway to obtain specimens to send to the laboratory in Albany. The lab is reported to be swamped however and there may be no report for perhaps two weeks.

Dr. Hargrave said the symptoms in Ellenville and Kerhonkson were "chills in some cases, fever of 102-103 degrees, sore throat and a general achy feeling."

On Monday the first student became ill at Kerhonkson and about 15 were sent home.

Dr. Hargrave said he had re-

State Taking 'Sympathetic' Attitude On Schools for Loss in Aid Over Flu

ALBANY (AP) — Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. today promised local school authorities a "sympathetic hearing" if they apply for recovery of losses in state aid from the current outbreaks of flu.

School districts are losing roughly $2 a day in state aid for each pupil absent.

New York City lost $560,000 yesterday alone, officials estimate. The city's loss on a normal day of absences is $150,000.

The losses Upstate also were running heavy although exact amounts could not be determined.

Thousands of children, probably close to half a million, were home because they were ill, or their schools were closed, or their mothers were fearful. Rain in many sections today was almost certain to push the figures upward.

Most of the cases have been mild. Some have been determined to be Asian flu, but many probably were simple colds.

Allen, in a statement, said the Education Department was "sympathetically watching" the situation. He said he had asked authorities, especially Dr. William Jansen, superintendent of schools in New York City, "to keep us fully and continually informed."

"We have asked all schools to keep careful records on absenteeism during this period and to consult at all times with health authorities," Allen said. He added:

"The Education Department will see to it that schools are not penalized for epidemic conditions and that they will not have a loss in state aid as a result of the Asian flu epidemic.

"I can assure school authorities of a sympathetic hearing when they apply for restoration of state aid due to loss of attendance resulting from the current epidemic."

For state aid purposes, it is up to the Education Department to determine when an epidemic exists. The State Health Department says that an epidemic of Asian flu has hit New York City but that the "sporadic outbreaks" Upstate do not constitute an epidemic so far.

State law allows a city to apply for restoration of state aid lost as the result of an epidemic, if 20 per cent of the pupils remain out of school for two weeks. However, the education commissioner has wide leeway.

Approximately 60 schools Upstate, with a total enrollment of more than 43,000, were reported closed this week. Absenteeism

No Moscow Change on Arms Seen

Khrushchev Still Raps M-E Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev says the Soviet government will agree to international control of earth satellites and all pilotless missiles—as part of a general Soviet-U. S. agreement to coexist peacefully.

In an interview in Moscow yesterday with James Reston, Washington bureau chief of the New York Times who is visiting the Soviet capital, Khrushchev said an agreement on peaceful coexistence would remove any problem of controlling new scientific devices.

"The Soviet communist party leader gave no indication, however, that the Moscow regime was prepared to modify the political or disarmament proposals previously rejected by the United States," Reston reported.

Critical of U. S.

"On the contrary, he was sharply critical of United States policy in the Middle East and Germany, charged that Secretary of State Dulles was trying to drive Turkey into war with Syria, and asserted that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was following a Hitlerite policy in West Germany."

Khrushchev said Moscow was amending its disarmament proposals to provide for inspection of rocket-launching sites. He explained that planes are "in decline" as a weapon, that bombers lack height and speed for modern combat and are vulnerable to rocket attack, and that fighter planes move so fast they are not effective in air-to-air combat.

Before a "reasonable agreement" can be reached between the Soviet Union and the United States, Khrushchev said, the West must concede that Russia, China and other states exist as socialist (communist) states and must stop basing its policy "on the theory that some internal upheaval is going to destroy these states."

Peaceful Competition

Khrushchev continued that the Soviet Union recognizes the existence of capitalist states with a different philosophy. It is "ready for peaceful competition with these states in all fields, he added, and if both sides approach each other as equals there is not a single question in the world that could not be solved."

The interview took place in Khrushchev's private office on the fifth floor of the headquarters of the Communist Party Central Committee.

Khrushchev charged that the United States is responsible for all troubles between it and the Soviet Union because it is trying to negotiate as if the United States is strong and Russia is weak.

The Soviet leader said his country has every kind of rocket for modern war—intercontinental, intermediate and short-range for frontline use.

Won't Talk From Weakness

"His recital of Soviet power," Reston wrote, "also made it clear that the Soviet Union was not prepared to discuss arms limitation from a position of weakness. He seemed to be saying: We are anxious to limit arms of all kinds but retail sales amounted to 42 billion dollars yearly and were increasing. Fried pointed out that the standard of living in this country is "definitely tied in with it. So is the government's interest in maintaining it, thereby insuring enough taxes to carry the government debt."

He said that national credit collections amounted to better than 99 per cent. The consumer public is able, under installment buying, to enjoy now the goods that it can pay for later.

Koschorreck spoke on the topic, "Forecasting," pointing out that one of the most important factors in the business economy of the nation was the fact that there are five more mouths to feed every minute.

This continued expansion, particularly during the past five years and, even more so, for the next 10, has and will present problems in management and finance of increasing depth and complexity, he stated.

Optimistic on Economy

He said he was confident the economy would continue to grow and forecast a gross national product rising to 550 or 600 billion dollars by 1965.

"The businessman or company that doesn't get his share —doesn't grow—will fall by the wayside." He said that "in this great free America we have every confidence we will succeed."

Ruble spoke on "Area Promotions and How to Accomplish Them," stressing that any promotion, to be successful, must have the cooperation of all merchants of the community. He cited a number of problems in promotion, such as lack of leadership on the local level. "The merchant doesn't always face up to his responsibilities."

Would Promote All Year

He suggested a year-round retail promotional program beginning with the calendar year, not a month-to-month piece-meal affair, citing these reasons: 1. Time factor — the merchants must prepare the promotion. 2. Cost factor. 3. Purchasing of necessary merchandise.

He cautioned merchants to be careful not to over-emphasize sales promotions, explaining that the shopping public today has a tendency to wait for the sales instead of spending at a steady rate.

Ruble said that business in modern society was experiencing difficulties in recruiting young people, that they were being attracted to other vocational areas —a challenge which must be met by the business community.

Ackerman spoke on "Purchasing, Pricing and Inventory Control." He described the operation of the Cherry-Burrell Coporation, pointing out that the firm forecast its production for a nine-month period. A careful study of trends for the past two years is made by sales specialists and on this compilation of data the forecast is made.

The purchasing group reviews inventory requirements with material control and points out how quantity brackets will affect costs, what deliveries may be expected from mills and supoliers, how deliveries may be split or consolidated.

He said that inventory records were maintained on slide tray Kardex forms, described its operation. In his industry obsolescence does not become effective until 15 years after a product line has been discontinued, he said.

Two Afternoon Parleys

Two conferences were scheduled for this afternoon, one in industry and the other in retail.

Richard J. Hanley, director of Industrial Relations, Bendix Aviation Corp., Utica division, was listed as speaker at the industrial section on the topic, "Employe and Community Relations."

Horace J. Landry, partner of Carrigan, Bottger, Landry and Scott, and assistant professor of accounting at Syracuse University, spoke to the retail group on "Finance and Tax Problems Applicable to the Businessman."

A shirt-sleeve session was scheduled from 2 to 5 p. m.

Dinner for Kearney

President Is Briefed On Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was briefed by government scientists today on Russia's launching of a satellite and on U. S. plans to put a "baby moon" into outer space.

After the hour-long session, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said in reply to a question that so far as he knows the President received no information which would lead to a speed up in this country's satellite program.

Present plans call for launching of a U. S. satellite early next year.

Eisenhower was briefed by Dr. Alan Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation, and Donald Quarles, deputy secretary of defense.

Waterman has overall direction of Project Vanguard, this country's satellite launching program. Quarles is an expert in the missile field.

Hagerty steadfastly refused to provide any detail whatever regarding the specific nature of the briefing Eisenhower got.

The press secretary said he preferred to let the President discuss the matter himself at his news conference scheduled for tomorrow at 10:30 a. m.

Hopes Are

at Cambridge, Mass.

However, Dr. Fred L. Whipple, observatory director, said the machine did not come up with the expected material because of insufficient or inaccurate data.

The results still were close enough, he said, to track the orbit within one minute and one degree.

Sightings Reported

Meanwhile, in Washington, the headquarters of "Project Vanguard" reported shortly after midnight that it had reports of two excellent sightings—both of them over Alaska yesterday.

Vanguard is the project name for the U. S. satellite development program. A spokesman said the sightings were significant because they coincided with the position plotted in advance at Vanguard headquarters.

The report that the baby moon appeared to be slowing down came from scientists at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute last night. Dr. Robert Fleischer, head of the observatory at Grafton, N. Y., said calculations showed the satellite was taking 100 minutes to circle the earth-about four minutes longer than before.

But that report was largely discounted by other late information, including a report that the satellite's pulsating radio signal had been picked up at the Blossom Point, Md., minitrack station at about 11:32 p. m. last night.

Vanguard headquarters said that put the satellite right on schedule.

Discounted Other Developments

Meanwhile, there were these other developments:

1. A group of scientists arranged to move into an isolated area 70 miles east of San Diego today to establish the first microlock tracking station. The microlock equipment is designed to plot the satellite's exact course from the radio signals the globe transmits.

2. A Russian scientist visiting in the United States, A. A. Blagonravov, said he believed the satellite was reporting atmospheric temperatures by radio, with the length of the "beep" signal as a code.

3. Sen. Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, disclosed last night that the staff of that group's preparedness subcommittee has been instructed to check into why the United States has lagged behind Russia in missile and satellite programs.

4. U. S. authorities announced plans to step up training of visual observers.

5. Dr. Lloyd Berkner, vice chairman of the international committee for the International Geophysical Year said the Russian satellite indicates the Soviets may have the capability of sending a ballistic missile to New York if they can aim it accurately.

U. S. Rejects Zhukov Visit, Soviet Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's Nikita Khrushchev was quoted today as having said the United States rejected a Soviet Union proposal that Marshal Georgi Zhukov visit the United States.

Zhukov is the Soviet defense minister and a personal acquaintance of President Eisenhower.

The reported statement by Khrushchev, Russia's communist party boss, was mentioned at the White House by New York Times correspondent W. H. Lawrence, in a news conference exchange with James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary.

Lawrence told Hagerty that Khrushchev discussed the Zhukov matter at a Moscow interview with James Reston, Washington correspondent for the Times.

The Times published a Khrushchev interview today, without mention of the Zhukov incident. It said a second part of the interview, on Soviet efforts to arrange a high-level disarmament meeting, would be released to the Times today.

The proposal for a Zhukov visit, Lawrence said, was set forth in an aide memoire, or memorandum. This would be a semi-formal communication to the U. S. government.

Khrushchev told Reston, Lawrence said, that the United States rejected the proposal and withheld publication of the aide memoire.

Hagerty declined comment, but said he would have something to say when the story is published in the Times.

Heads State AP

SYRACUSE (AP) — The New York State Associated Press Assn. today elected Gilbert P. Smith of the Utica Daily Press as president.

Smith succeeds Charles G. Murray of the Poughkeepsie New Yorker.

Elected vice president at the concluding session of the editors' two-day meeting was Charles J. Wellner of the Auburn Citizen-Advertiser. Norris Paxton, chief of the Albany AP bureau, was reelected secretary-treasurer. Approximately 50 editors attended.

May Abandon Track

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Delaware and Hudson railroad had conditional permission today to abandon the northern section of its Lake George branch, a 7½-mile stretch between Glens Falls and Lake George, N. Y.

The railroad will continue operation of the southern 7½ miles of the branch between Fort Edward and Glens Falls.

Will Explain Security For Police, Firemen

Social security coverage, as proposed for policemen and firemen, will be explained by a representative of the New York State Civil Service Association, Oct. 26 at a meeting in the local Elks Club.

A social program, including dining and dancing, will be given on the same night through arrangements by the Ulster County Chapter, Civil Service Employes Association.

Comptroller Arthur Levitt announced that he is taking steps to insure policemen and firemen coverage. A canvass of municipalities will be made, he said determine the extent of coverage each requests, and he said he will move for proper legislation at the next session of the State Legislature.

Local decisions must be made as to amount of retroactive coverage.

Reports Car Stolen

Stanley V. Kriniski, of Box 176, Cementon, notified police at 8:10 p. m., yesterday that his 1956 automobile was stolen from the IBM parking lot on Grand Street where he had left it parked. The state police and sheriff's office were notified.

Turkey Blames Syrian Patrol For Border Clash

ANKARA (AP) — Turkish authorities said today a Syrian border police chief fired into a group of unarmed Turkish railroad workers yesterday, starting a 50-minute battle between border patrols.

The government declined comment but authorities with first-hand reports said the exchange took place at a free zone where Syrian crews take over from Turkish crews on the Istanbul-Baghdad railway.

They said Syrian police, without warning, tried to search 37 Turkish workers returning to their border yesterday. The workers resisted.

A Syrian police chief then fired a gun in the air, and when the Turks tried to seize his gun he fired into a group wounding one man in the leg, the reports said.

A Turkish border guard post with 10 soldiers began firing toward the border bridge. The Syrians returned the fire and 15 Turkish reinforcements arrived. The battle continued for another half hour but no further casualties were reported.

Note—Water usage yesterday went above the 4,000,000-gallon mark yesterday for the first time since Sept. 26, indicating that some users might have taken recent rains as a signal to be less conservative. The Cooper Lake area, however, had only .24 of an inch of rain Oct. 6, and .38 of an inch yesterday, a total of .62 of an inch. It is not enough to be helpful.

Predicts Russia Will Have More Science Surprises

SYRACUSE (AP)—Russia will continue its rapid rate of development in science and technology, a foreign news analyst for the Associated Press says.

Tom Whitney, former chief of the AP bureau in Moscow, said yesterday that the Soviets were coming from behind in their quest to catch up with the West.

"We can expect the Russians to bring out other surprises," like the first earth satellite, Whitney said at a luncheon meeting of the New York State Associated Press Assn.

However, Whitney said, "they are determined to prove themselves. They are willing to accept sacrifices because they want to be first. Therefore, sacrifices that seem to us to be impossible seem ordinary to them."

Carl Carmer of Irvington-on-Hudson asked the editors at the dinner meeting to help New York State the "major focus of 1959," the year set aside for celebration of Henry Hudson's first voyage up the Hudson river and the exploration of Lake Champlain. Carmer is chairman of Gov. Harriman's committee planning the 350th anniversary dual celebration.

The two-day annual meeting, attended by approximately 50 editors, ended today.

AIMED AT THE MOON—A manned satellite, "Meteor Junior," rushing constantly through outer space at 16,660 m.p.h. in an orbit 500 miles above the earth and possibly landing on the moon, can be established on an economically feasible basis within eight years. That is the keynote of a presentation made by Darrell C. Romick, Goodyear Aircraft scientist, at the International Astronautical Federation in Barcelona, Spain. "Meteor Junior," a modification of a larger version described in 1954, will be a three-stage ferry rocket. Each stage would have the general appearance of a delta-wing aircraft, have its own crew and be capable of independent controlled flight. Nested together for initial launching, left sketch, the tri-stage rocket would be 142 feet high overall and weigh 500 tons. The first or bottom stage, powered by 17 rocket engines capable of providing a total of 2,224,000 pounds of thrust, would expend its fuel in some 60 seconds. By that time the vehicle would attain a speed of 6,600 m.p.h. and an altitude of 24 miles. This stage then would be detached, center sketch. The second stage would then cut in and accelerate speed to 15,000 miles per hour before being separated. The third and final stage would increase speed to 18,000 miles per hour and propel the vehicle to the 500-mile orbit. Once in orbit, the speed would fall to a constant 16,600 m.p.h. Approaching the moon, right sketch, Meteor Junior's final stage is designed to accommodate a three-man crew and the supplies necessary to sustain them in space for two months.

Too Slippery for Reds

VIENNA (AP)—Police today told the story of a Czech family that proved too slippery for their country's communist rulers.

Hoping to get to America, 43-year-old Antonin Liska, and his wife, Jarmila, took their children, 9 and 5, and slipped into one of the empty oil tank cars that is sent to Austria regularly to pick up the oil that Russia exacts as reparations. They brought along old military gas masks—in case the car's air was bad—and a large nylon sack of clothes and food.

After a 36-hour trip, they arrived safely in Austria Sunday, completely smeared with oil.

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Bound for Venezuela, the 10 Italians loaded their luggage on the boat and kissed the friends and relatives from their home village farewell.

An hour later the voyage was over. They were on the ferry between Naples and the Isle of Capri, just across the bay.

The story was told in court yesterday and Pasquale Corvino, a fugitive, was sentenced in absentia to 10 months in prison on a charge of cheating. He had collected the equivalent of $300 from each of the 10, promising them passage to Venezuela and jobs when they arrived. Instead he put them on the Naples-Capri ferry and then disappeared.

COMMUNITY CHEST

The Kingston Area Community Chest, Inc. needs $118,500 to support ten agencies in the coming year. The member agencies of the Chest are Kingston Boys Club, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Jewish Community Center, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, YMCA, YWCA, Association for the Help of Retarded Children and United Service Organization.

Have you ever wondered just what kind of a community this would be without these agencies? Recognizing their worthiness, however, is not enough. We must help support them through the Chest drive. Formerly each of these made its separate campaign for financial assistance. That involved a succession of drives, entailing one solicitation after another. Now we can give in a single contribution what would otherwise be given in separate contributions to the various organizations.

The ten agencies now in the local Chest are recognized as vital to the life of the community and it might be well to consider the increased number participating when we make our contribution.

Last year the goal of $108,000 was oversubscribed by about $700. With the addition of two new recipients—Ulster Chapter of Association for the Help of Retarded Children and United Service Organizations—the goal for this year's campaign has been increased to $118,500. Slightly more than $4,000 of increase was occasioned by the inclusion of the two new agencies. The balance of the increase was due to normal increases in operatng expenses and expansion of services of the other eight agencies.

Success of the Community Chest depends entirely upon its acceptance by the general public. If we are to reach the goal this Fall, everyone must do his or her share.

Chancellor Adenauer sees evidence of "some unrest, some fermentation in the Soviet Union." Celebrations should be delayed pending a few more somes and then somes.

WHERE DOES IT GO?

The government has announced a new record high in personal income in the United States. Wherever this news is discussed, one hears variants of this bewildered question, "But where does it go?" The man on the street notes that he seems to have about as much trouble as ever paying his bills and keeping up with the Joneses.

The answer to the question above is actually simple. The American people are living higher and higher on the hog. For example, they are eating more of the expensive foods—more meat instead of the cereals, more fruits out of season, more elaborately processed foods. They spend vastly more for services than they used to, and only partly because the cost of services has risen. They live in fancier houses, drive bigger and fancier cars, wear a greater variety of clothing.

Americans also entertain themselves more frequently and more lavishly than in the past. They take more elaborate vacation trips. A great majority of homes boast at least one of those little theaters known as television sets. The consumption of beverages and party foods is rising.

There may be nothing wrong with this. We live in an economy of abundance, and perhaps we would be fools not to play to the hilt the role of the free-spending consumer. All the same, it might be a good thing if more people would take enough time out from their spending to think the matter through.

Personal income in the United States is higher than it has ever been before, higher than ever in the history of any large population anywhere. There is no harm in our asking the question: Are we making the best possible use of our wealth; are we spending it on the things we really want and need to measure up to our potential as a great and enlighted people?

VULNERABILITY

Every country has its particular kind of strength or it would not exist at all. Politicians have a way of limiting their discussions to strength which sounds good to the multitude but which, if accepted without criticism, can lead to disaster. The critic is never too popular in a period of inflation, both of money and the ego, because he annoys, he irritates, he even frightens those who dare not face tomorrow.

Senator Harry F. Byrd has for years been calling attention to the dangerous tax load that the American people must carry. At the end of last year, the debt load amounted to:

	Billion
"Corporate	$253
Private	213
Federal	277
State and local	50
Total	793

"This is an increase of $200 billion, or about 33 per cent, in 4 years.

"With only temporary exceptions to the rule, Federal expenditures have been constantly rising, and in recent years—since 1954—the greatest increases have been in strictly domestic-civilian programs; not military and foreign aid. State and local governments have been following suit. Combined Federal, state, and local expenditures from tax revenue, miscellaneous receipts, and borrowing are running to a total of more than $132 billion annually."

In addition to the $275,000,000,000 of Federal debt, there are an additional $250,000,000,000 of contingent liabilities which may become an actual charge on the Treasury under certain circumstances. In a word, the citizen faces the prospect and possibility that his government's indebtedness could amount to $525,000,000,000, according to Senator Byrd.

At the same time that this indebtedness has been developing, consumers' prices have been steadily marching upward since 1940. Consumers' prices have increased by more than 100 per cent since 1939 and the dollar has declined by more than 50 per cent and the loss is continuing.

Considering the vulnerability of the United States, this inflationary condition can be devastating if it continues to grow worse. To ignore it is criminal. To take the wrong steps to end it because the right steps are politically embarrassing is outrageously cowardly. To tell the people not to buy what they need and to postpone buying what they want while the government continues to be profligatively wasteful is hypocritical.

The first step to economic sanity must be the release of the American people from the war budget which continues to afflict us. Are we at war? That question must be answered at the polls sooner or later because if we are not at war, we need not continue to pay war-time taxes; if we are at war, how can we subsidize enemy or neutral countries? The Eisenhower Administration has great difficulty realizing that the course of history does not wait nor is it made in any one country.

More and more, it is the interplay of universal forces which starting in one area influence all the world. For instance, what we see in China today started during the Taiping Rebellion (1850-1864) and is a reflex of the first impact of Western Christianity upon the Chinese mind. Its end result is the curious brand of Marxism which became the philosophy of the rationalistic, pragmatic Mao Tze-tung who studied philosophy with John Dewey's pupil, Hu Shih, at Peking University.

When we deal with vulnerabilities, we must note that while our economy is becoming dangerously inflated and our people are suffering from political apathy, our educational system is not producing the inquiring intelligence necessary to live in our hard world. Henry L. Roberts makes the point:

". . . It is chastening but useful to realize that virtually every new weapon of the Second World War was the outgrowth of European, not American, thinking. To be sure, we have displayed our customary ability in organizing, applying and mass-producing the products of this thinking, but a roster of the personnel connected not only with the Manhattan Project but with the subsequent development of the thermonuclear weapons will show the extent of our dependence upon foreign scientific thought and theory. . . ."

Yet we have had universal compulsory education for a century and we have a greater high school and college registration than any country. Where have we gone wrong? Are we so hard-headed and practical that we fail in the realm of theory upon which all science is based? Are we so busy counting with machines that we do not produce mathematicians? These questions concern our survival.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The coming visit of Queen Elizabeth II has thrown Washington social historians into secondary tizzy on the question of how many queens have slept in the White House.

The records of the White House itself are no good on this point. Every administration takes its own records with it and there is no file of distinguished visitors worth a darn.

The answer is that nine queens have visited the White House, but only four of them slept there.

You can raise that to five if you count the second visit of the present Queen Elizabeth's mother in 1954. But she was Queen Mother then, and not reigning queen.

THE FIRST REIGNING monarchs who seem to have hit town were King Albert I of Belgium and his Queen Elizabeth.

They were here in October, 1919, nearly a year after the end of World War I. They got heroic welcomes because of the gallant stand of their little country against the Germans. But they didn't stay at the White House. President Woodrow Wilson was seriously ill at the time. The royal couple merely called to pay their respects.

The second queen to call was Marie of Romania, but she didn't stay at the White House either. There was a major hassle over her grand tour from start to finish, including the Washington visit, October 18-19, 1926 in the Coolidges' time.

On arrival, the Queen made a short formal call at the White House at 4 p. m. The Coolidges immediately returned the call. No photos were permitted at the White House. But when the Coolidges got to the Queen's suite, cameras were all set up and the Coolidges had to submit.

The formal 8 p. m. dinner at the White House next night lasted exactly one hour and 45 minutes. Then the Coolidges went upstairs to bed and the Queen had no place to go but back where she came from.

THIRD ROYAL VISITORS were King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai of Siam, now Thailand, in 1931. They were the first absolute monarchs to visit this country. The King came for removal of a cataract on his eye and was in the U. S. April 20 to July 29.

His Washington official visit was April 28-30. President Hoover gave a state banquet for him and George Washington University gave him an honorary degree. There was a state reception which was probably the most glamorous Washington social event of the whole depression.

The King is now dead, but Queen Rambai still lives in Bangkok. She is aunt of the present King Phumiphon Aduldet.

The first royal visitors actually to sleep in the White House were Britain's late King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, the present Queen Mother. They were entertained by the Roosevelts June 8 and 9, 1939, then went to Hyde Park for the weekend.

During the war, the first royal visitor was Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands. She stayed at the White House Aug. 5 and 6, 1942. At a state banquet, President Roosevelt toasted her "great leadership and high achievement." She was the first queen ever to address the U. S. Congress.

AFTER THE WAR, her daughter, Queen Juliana, and consort Prince Bernhard visited the United States and Canada. They stayed at the White House April 2-4, 1951 as the guests of President and Mrs. Truman.

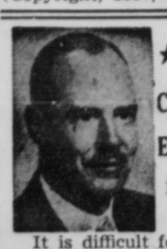

King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece were entertained by President and Mrs. Eisenhower Oct. 28-30, 1953. They stayed at the White House one night, then moved to Blair-Lee House, the government's official guest residence.

Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth spent nearly a month in the U. S. and Canada in 1954. She was in Washington Nov. 4-12, spending the first two days at the White House with the Eisenhowers.

Shah Mohammed Riza Pahelvy of Iran and his young Queen Saroya were entertained at lunch in the White House by President and Mrs. Eisenhower on Dec. 13, 1954, but this wasn't a state visit. The Shah came to the U. S. for a medical checkup.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia was in Washington Jan. 29-Feb. 9, 1957. He was met by President Eisenhower and entertained at the White House but he stayed at Blair-Lee.

Credit Due Inoculations for Ending Fear of Many Killers

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

It is difficult for many people to realize what a terrible toll in illness and death was taken by some contagious diseases. Certainly our better chances for long life are due greatly to the fact that many of these diseases have become rare.

One reason for the conquest of these infections is the development and use of preventive vaccinations or inoculations.

TODAY, IN North America, most children are given their first protective vaccinations early in life. But they have to be followed up by booster immunizations later on to keep up resistance.

Today it is customary to give injections within the first few weeks of life, or certainly the first few months. The diseases concerned are diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus or lockjaw. In many instances these injections can be given in combined form against two or even three of these diseases.

An infant has some natural immunity to smallpox at birth so that vaccination against smallpox is often given a little later.

INOCULATIONS should be repeated in later years of childhood and even in adult life, under certain circumstances, if one would keep resistant. Fortunately, the regulations of schools, summer camps and the like frequently serve as reminders of the need.

Although these protective vaccinations are the most common—or at least have been—there are others which are desirable. The most recent addition is polio vaccination. I believe that today this should also be given routinely to children at the proper age.

AMONG OTHERS is vaccination against typhoid fever, a germ disease usually contracted from contaminated fluids or food. If a person is going to some part of the world where the sanitation is poor, inoculation against typhoid and possibly other diseases may be desirable. Under special circumstances, one may also need protective inoculations against yellow fever, cholera, typhus, Rocky Mountain spotted fever and others.

The advice of the physician who takes care of the child from birth should be followed when it comes to giving protective inoculations. Physicians do not all handle the situation exactly alike.

Soviet Satellite Launching Called No Cause for Panic

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What a strange case of jitters has swept the most powerful country in the world! The Soviets shoot a rocket 560 miles up in the air and send a ball spinning into space and everybody forgets that the United States Army sent a rocket 600 miles into the air a year ago. It went 3,600 miles across the earth's surface and just didn't happen to have a ball attached to it to be flung into space.

Yet today the emphasis is on the fact that the Soviets have the power to fire guided missiles across continents, and presumably America doesn't. This is supposed to terrify the American people and tell them that Russia has intercontinental missiles and America had better bow in humble submission.

The truth is that, in the game of missiles, much progress has been made by science in many countries, and the question of whether one nation can fire a missile farther than another is already academic. In due time the mysteries of the missile will be as well known as the capacity of the H-bomb to destroy cities. Also the next step—the interception of missiles—is a countermove already under way.

Noted by Red Press

Some of the hysterical reaction arising in the United States from the Soviet announcement was promptly noted in the Soviet press. Immediately there were demands that America "change" her foreign policy and agree to "co-existence." This is but another way of demanding that the Soviet policy be accepted. This means infiltration wherever the Communists wish and continued enslavement of hundreds of millions of people.

Judging from some of the comments in America, there are persons who feel the only thing to do is to surrender to the Russians and forget about any possible resistance. One is reminded of the tales told in the 1930s by those prominent visitors who were invited to see the Nazis' air strength and their armored divisions. These observers immediately counseled that there was no use resisting such military power and that it was better to try to "do business with Hitler."

Unquestionably the Soviets have pulled off a propaganda stunt which is dramatic to the extreme. But American foreign policy is not usually upset by propaganda. The position of the United States against the Soviets was outlined in four hours of conversation by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to Andrei Gromyko, the Soviet Foreign Minister, last Saturday. Their meeting in Washington occurred on the day after the first announcement of the Soviet's launching of a space ball. From what has been learned here since, the Soviets showed in that conference no signs of forwarding the cause of peace. Their policies presumably are based on the theory that democracies are weak and fickle and will be swayed by propaganda stunts.

There are bound to be certain consequences in the other direction—a stiffening of American policy. Instead of assuming that military preparation can be cut down through "disarmament" discussions, there will be a tendency here to urge larger appropriations for armament. The "economy drive" of the last session of Congress may lose some momentum now. The funds for scientific research will be increased, though sometimes an abundance of money is no substitute for concentrated and well-co-ordinated research.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of the new revelation is the confirmation it gives of the wisdom of President Eisenhower's aerial inspection program. It has been known for some time that airplanes could fly at tremendous heights and avoid detection. They can photograph from the sky and go unmolested. The theory that one government will not permit another government to fly planes over its territory without permission seems to have been abandoned by the Russians in their latest exploit. They were supposed to have announced in advance, for scientific reasons, their intention to traverse the air over America, but they didn't.

One wonders what the Soviets would have said if an American contrivance had been sent spinning over Russian territory. Maybe the Soviets have unwittingly created a precedent for future reconnaissance through the air. They have been arguing that twelve to thirty miles is the territorial limit horizontally. It might be contended now that vertically there is no national sovereignty over space way up high in the heavens.

Convinced of Defeat

This isn't a time for partisan politics, though there are some in Congress who already seem to think that America has suffered some kind of defeat because of the Soviet exploit. Does it really prove that the scientists of one country are better than those of another country just because one group first gets a device that traverses the higher spaces?

Long before the Wright brothers flew the first plane there were adventurous pioneers who traveled high in balloons. But while balloons are still of value for weather purposes, they don't play any part in warfare.

So, too, while Russia's earth-girdling ball is spectacular, militarily it is of no value in and of itself. What is important is the power to send military weapons around the world and the danger on that score is that the weapon might go all the way around the globe and come back and destroy the people who initiated its tragic flight. The aim could be all wrong.

We are a long way from the "Buck Rogers" era yet—and the moon seems to be not just 560 miles in the air but still at least 215,000 miles away.

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street is taking a closer look at how Mr. Average American spends his leisure time.

Stock prices have slipped in recent weeks. Traders and investors, always looking for stock that will rise, are paying more attention than usual to companies that stand to gain by America's ever-changing living habits.

The Exchange, monthly magazine of the Stock Market, says in its current issue that vacations of employed persons totaled 70 million weeks this year.

3 Billion on Leisure

The Department of Commerce says that, last year, Americans spent three billion dollars on products associated with recreation and leisure time, including sports and hobbies.

Growth potential of 25 companies whose products are associated with such spending is getting a close look as stocks of many other companies dip.

Weigh Other Factors

Traders also are weighing other factors in a market that has been in the doldrums much of late.

These factors include:

How high stock margins should be, yields on favorites at present prices, common shares with preferred or other corporate debt ahead of them at dividend time and profit margins.

Margin rules of the federal reserve board aren't as close to traders as they once were—the percentage buying on margin is much lower today than in the 20's. At the moment, a buyer must put up 70 per cent in cash.

But the rules are close to a broker's heart because his income depends on commissions on sales and with the market volume low commissions are on the slim side. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, thinks that, if the Federal Reserve let people put up only 50 per cent in cash, trading would pick up and the broker members would be happier.

So far the Federal Reserve isn't talking.

Market Story

Yields on stocks are close to the investor's heart. The long drop in prices has sweetened the yield for many favorites. The Exchange, monthly magazine on the big board, points out 20 common stocks in its October issue, out today, that have long records of unbroken quarterly dividend payments and have fallen in price enough of late to make their yields more attractive.

Yield is found by dividing the price paid for a stock into the year's cash dividend income.

The 1,071 companies with common stocks listed on the exchange reported sales last year of nearly 233½ billion dollars, but net income after taxes of $16½ billion, or a profit on sales of 7 per cent. Highest percentage was 20.8 for the financial companies and the lowest 2.8 for retail trade.

Redeemer Church Anniversary Talk By Noted Speaker

Henry Endress, Litt. D., well-known as a producer of religious motion pictures and stewardship secretary of the United Lutheran Church in America, will be the principal speaker at the 60th anniversary banquet Wednesday 7 o'clock at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers Streets.

The 40 year-old layman served as executive secretary of Lutheran Church Productions, Inc. 1951-53 and was one of the moving forces in the production of the international smash hit "Martin Luther." In the project, Dr. Endress was one of nine writers on the script and during production and editing in West Germany, he was one of two representatives of the Lutheran Churches in America.

Too Controversial

When it became clear that commercial film distributors were afraid of handling the Luther film because it was "too controversial for them," it was Endress and the president of Louis de Rochemont Associates who developed an independent plan of distribution and launched the film in a rented theatre in Minneapolis where 78,000 people came to see it in 3½ weeks.

Before coming to the United Lutheran post, Dr. Endress was executive director of the United War and Community Funds for the state of Connecticut. He had been director of the Staten Island (N. Y.) Community Chest and publicity director for the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce and of Wagner College. At present he is a member of the board of trustees of the college along with the Rev. David C. Gaise, pastor of Redeemer Church.

The banquet at which Dr. Endress will speak is part of the 60th anniversary celebration of Redeemer congregation. The first service of the congregation was held in 1897 in Liscomb's Opera House on Broadway. The officiating clergyman at that service was the Rev. Frederick Sutter, who this year is celebrating his 50th anniversary as pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Staten Island. Dr. Endress' home congregation. Dr. Sutter is also president of the Wagner college board of trustees, a post he has held for over 40 years.

The anniversary week at Redeemer Church will conclude on Sunday with a festival service in the morning at which the Rev. Dr. Harold Haas will preach the anniversary sermon and with a reception in the evening for all members received into the church during this anniversary year.

Owning stock makes you part-owner of the company. You share in any profits that may be paid as dividends . . . and if the business grows your money may grow, too. Or you can buy bonds and be paid interest for the use of your money.

Investing is only for people with a lot of money. ☐ TRUE ☐ FALSE

False. Two out of three shareowners today have incomes under $7500 a year . . . many, under $5000. But nobody should invest a penny without first being sure family expenses are covered and there's money for emergencies.

You have to be an expert to invest. ☐ TRUE ☐ FALSE

False. But you do need facts. Never fall for tips or rumors. Remember, security prices can go down as well as up, like the price of anything else . . . and a company may not always pay dividends or interest.

You have to know somebody in the company to get facts about it. ☐ TRUE ☐ FALSE

False. All you have to do is find a good broker. Make sure he's with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. He'll be glad to give you facts you'll want to know about companies you're interested in. It's his job to help you buy and sell. He'll be happy to sit down with you and talk over investments to meet your needs . . . either stocks or bonds or both . . . and from time to time you can ask him to look over your securities with you.

I'd need a big lump sum to get started. ☐ TRUE ☐ FALSE

False. For as little as $40 every three months, you can buy stocks on the Monthly Investment Plan . . . a convenient method of investing regularly on a pay-as-you-go basis. Your broker will be happy to tell you more about it . . . and ask him for our helpful booklet, "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." It tells about the Monthly Investment Plan and gives the records of over 300 stocks on the Exchange that have paid dividends every year for 25 to 109 years. This interesting little booklet is yours absolutely free . . . just ask your broker or mail this coupon. Isn't it time you looked into the possibility of putting your money to work to give you a second income?

Recommend New Method for Land Tax Computation

ALBANY (AP) — A state agency is recommending a new method of computing property tax-exemption, a method that could require veterans, clergymen and volunteer firemen to pay millions of dollars more in local taxes.

It was learned today that the Equalization Board would ask tax assessors throughout the state to adopt a new interpretation of the 67-year-old law governing tax exemptions for these groups.

Proposal Made

The board already has put the proposal to a group of about 50 tax assessors. This was done at one of the board's "schools" on assessment procedures, conducted in Albany last week.

The interpretation originated with the board's counsel, Robert E. Kilmer, who recently issued a legal opinion holding that exemptions must be based on property assessment on full valuation Kilmer pointed out that the board has no power to order tax assessors to adopt this principle but simply may suggest that they do so.

He gave this example to illustrate the change in procedure that the board proposes:

Suppose a veteran owns a house valued at $10,000 and has a $5,000 exemption, representing government payments he has accrued. If his community assessed his property at 50 per cent of full valuation, his assessment would be $5,000. The current practice is to conduct his exemption from the assessment.

Some Pay No Taxes

In the case cited, with a $5,000 exemption, he would be left with no taxes to pay.

The new interpretation holds that the exemption should be deducted at the outset — from the full valuation. Then the assessment, in this case 50 per cent, of the balance, would be the taxable base. This would mean the veteran would pay tax on $2,500 of valuation.

A spokesman for the board said the agency felt that this method would make for more equality in assessment. He said there were no plans to seek any ruling on the point from the state attorney general.

Among principals attending the presentation were (first row l-r) Richard W. Heffernan, past district deputy; District Deputy Strobel, guest of honor; Edward M. Henderson, also a past district deputy; rear, Fred L. Van Deusen, secretary of Rondout Lodge; Paul Jones, past master; William A. Evans, present master and Donald Schoonmaker Jr., senior warden. Many prominent Masons were present from the Grand Lodge, Greene-Ulster and other districts. Allen M. Potter, Wawarsing Lodge 582, favored with vocal selections during the program. Harriman Scored own Presidential aspirations.

"His desire not to antagonize the southern bloc of Democrats outweighs his impartial assessment of the grievousness of Faubus' conduct. This gratuitous apology for Faubus was made despite the fact the governor of Arkansas has never for one instant attempted to shift responsibility elsewhere but, on the contrary, has persisted in the obstructionist attitude which marked his calling out of the Arkansas National Guard to prevent integration."

"In the same radio interview on September 22, Governor Harriman asserted that President Eisenhower should have issued a 'ringing statement' on the issue. Questioned by the radio interviewers as to what kind of ringing statement he, Harriman, would have made if he were President, he stated:

'I think that a message should have gone — saying, "young man, you are making a grave mistake and the best thing for you to do is to reverse your position, and if you do, you will win the respect of everyone".'"

Is He So Naive?

"Is Governor Harriman so naive as to believe that such a statement would cause the walls of segregation in Arkansas to come tumbling down or was he inferentially declaring his own soft attitude on this issue for Southern consumption in anticipation of 1960?"

The Attorney General paid high tribute to the efforts of Congressman Kenneth Keating of Rochester who he said had given "a full-measure of representation in the fight for civil rights with Senator Ives and Senator Javits." He said Congressman Keating was a "pioneer" in the fight for such legislation.

Says Party Ran Out

Attorney General Lefkowitz also charged the Democratic Party with "running out" when the civil rights legislation was being considered in Congress. He said that incidents attending the attempts to pass the program of President Eisenhower should "dispel any doubts as to the insincerity of the Democratic Party in striking down Part III of the civil rights bill.

"However, this can be said for Governor Faubus—that he has cleared the air. He has shown up the opposition of the Democratic Party to the President's civil rights proposals for what it really is.

"He has forced many men who hide behind parliamentary tricks and legalistic arguments during the recent debates in Congress to disclose themselves. He has exposed the spurious righteousness of Democratic dignitaries whose passion for law and justice dies on their own native soil. He has exposed the hypocrisies of faint-hearted Northern Democrats.

"The people of the State of New York must realize the painful truth that Governor Harriman failed to communicate publicly with the Democratic leaders of Congress to urge them to support the Eisenhower recommendations for civil rights legislation. He was strangely silent, as were other Democratic hopefuls seeking the 1960 Democratic nomination for President."

Attorney General Lefkowitz said the "failure of Democratic leaders of Congress to support legislation to implement integration was an act of omission which encouraged the Faubuses of the South. The leaders of the Democratic Party may issue statements disassociating themselves from Governor Faubus, but they cannot disassociate themselves from the aid and comfort they gave to the Southern segregationists at the last session of Congress."

Ulster Trailer

Defendants refused to be arraigned under the new charges on the grounds they could not be taken from custody of the officers to whom they had been remanded by the justice.

Released On Writs

Habeas corpus writs were issued by County Judge Louis G. Bruhn and the four defendants were released in custody of their counsel. Judge Bruhn adjourned the hearings on the writs several times and it is expected these writs will now be dismissed.

The original informations were attacked on the grounds Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt who issued the warrant did not have jurisdiction since he had been a member of the town board which approved the trailer camp ordinance which was being attacked. A motion was pending to have that matter heard by county court.

Dismissal Indicated

In view of the attitude of the defendants as presented by Attorney Schick, Justice Taylor permitted withdrawal of the motion for preference and it was indicated the other proceedings would be dismissed in County court.

"We have secured the relief our clients demanded through the amendments to the ordinance which have removed the objectionable requirements", Schick said. In all twenty-nine actions which were pending have been, or will be disposed of satisfactory to all parties, he indicated.

Defective Cord Blamed For Albany Avenue Fire

Fire believed to have been caused by a defective extension cord damaged a radio and record player, and a china closet in a brick bungalow owned by Rudi Hohenberger, at the rear of 303 Albany Avenue yesterday afternoon.

Wiltwyck station and the Wicks company answered a call at 5:30 p. m. The radio unit near where the fire started was in a basement section. The blaze caused heavy smoke in first-floor and attic areas. A 1½-inch hose line was used.

Wiltwyck station responded to another call at 6:39 a. m. for fire started by a transformer on a Central Hudson pole on Fair Street Extension. It was checked with a booster line.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed downward in vigorous trading early this afternoon but with scattered issues making good gains.

Key stocks took losses of from fractions to around 2 points or in some cases advanced a point or more.

The market was lower in an active opening which brought a one-minute delay in the high-speed ticker tape. Then the list became mixed as prices churned in brisk dealings.

The trend to the downside prevailed later in the morning. The aircraft and missile stocks which kept part of their big initial gains yesterday in response to the news of Russia's man-made moon were irregular today. Most steels were on the downside in continued uncertainty about the industry outlook.

Martin Co., maker of the American earth satellite, continued to forge ahead, adding more than a point. General Dynamics, which like Martin is working on an intercontinental ballistic missile, also rose more than a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 70 cents to $163.60 with the industrials down $1.00, the rails down $1.10 and the utilities unchanged.

On the American Stock Exchange prices were irregular in moderately active trading.

Corporate bonds rose in fairly brisk dealings.

U. S. government bonds edged higher in slow transactions over the counter.

U. S. Press Varies On Red 'Moon'

By The Associated Press

Most newspapers in the United States see Russia's artificial satellite as a dramatic demonstration of Soviet scientific advancement.

Interpretations were varied in the editorials as to what this means to this country.

Excerpts from some:

New York Times — "If Mr. Khrushchev wants credit for the space satellite and the intercontinental missile, he must also accept responsibility for the political tensions that have been generated among the Russians' by the sacrifice these feats required."

New York Mirror—"It's a good time for everybody to calm down and get on—eschewing complacency as the plague—with our own missile-and-satellite program.

New York Daily News—". . . Why not key our anti-Red propaganda to the fact that Sputnik is just pie in the sky to the Russian people? They can't eat it, drink it, wear it or live in it. . .The Russian people pay for such achievements with their blood, sweat, toil and tears, while suffering scandalously low living standards and supporting some 6,000,000 Reds in luxury."

Chicago American — "The Russians have blasted our smug conviction that American scientists are the world's most advanced."

Cleveland Plain Dealer — "Will a lass's eyes shine brightly as the man-made moon politely streaks along with beeps and hisses far removed from love and kisses?"

Atlanta Constitution — "Every citizen now must worry about the survival chances of this nation. The administration is guilty of taking risks which involve our very existence."

Miami Herald — "Clearly, the Russians have the jump. . .but one leg of a relay race does not make up an entire track meet."

Richmond News Leader—"It is futile for the White House to maintain. . .there was no 'race' between Russia and the United States to launch an astrophysical satellite. There was a race, and Friday night the United States lost it."

State Taking

ranged from 10 to 50 per cent, school officials reported.

The New York City school superintendent reported an absence of 29 per cent, or 280,164 of the city's 964,952 pupils. He said 3,442 teachers had reported they were ill.

A State Health Department spokesman said 40 per cent of the 42,400 pupils in Rochester were absent. The schools remained open.

In Buffalo, about one-seventh of the 63,700 public school pupils missed classes. The absence among 13,800 pupils in Binghamton was 3,375.

In Watertown, 16 public and 4 parochial schools closed today. Nearly 2,000 pupils among a total of 8,117 had been absent, beginning last Thursday.

Other schools closed today included Lisbon Central in St. Lawrence County, West Genesee Central High School, West of Syracuse, and Honeoye Central and Clifton Springs school, near Rochester.

Some schools were closed yesterday in these communities: Amsterdam, North Syracuse, Malone, Olean, Sodus, Depew, Randolph, Greene, Newark Valley, Ellicottville, Spencerport, Germantown, Hinsdale, Clarence, Moravia, Geneseo, Churchville - Chili and Hillcrest.

Stang Stresses

one man or a group of men build a fence around themselves and attempt to live alone. Recent scientific developments, which have caused so much comment in the last week, only go to show more explicitly that we can not stand still.

Government Plays Part

Government plays an important part in this development at all levels. In Kingston we have kept abreast of the times, and in the years to come every effort must be made to keep in step. We dare not lag behind. Peoples of our several communities must learn to appreciate governments problems and try to work as a team. The old expression, "United We Stand, Divided We Fall" is more true today than ever before.

By evincing interest in the other fellows problem, ofttimes we find we are helping ourselves. Let's do just that and I predict a very rosy future for the Kingston area and the entire Hudson Valley.

Third of Students

ceived no reports of "unusual absentism" from any other schools in the county.

He is keeping in close touch with schools and industries which have been requested to notify the health department immediately if a high incidence of absentism occurs.

The vaccine is still in short supply, he told The Freeman. It is unlikely that amounts of any magnitude will be available much before the middle of this month. The vaccine, when available, will go directly to local pharmacists and physicians.

New Parish Will

located at the intersection of Route 9W and Boice's Lane, running along the latter road to the West Shore Railroad tracks. The properties comprising the new church site were formerly the Charles Ashley property and the Airport Inn, owned by Mrs. Beatrice Donnell. Approximately five acres of land were in the transaction.

The property was acquired to meet the spiritual requirements of the increased number of Roman Catholic families in that section.

NEW DELHI (AP)—A top Indian scientist speculated today that the Soviet earth satellite is radioing information on a frequency not disclosed by the Russians.

Dr. K. N. Mathur, deputy director of India's national physical laboratory, said the Soviet Union may have disclosed the 20.005 and 40.002 megacycle frequencies just to "create a stir."

"There must be some other frequency on which they are getting all the information," he said.

NEW DELHI (AP)—A front-page cartoon in the non-Communist Indian Express today shows U. S. Secretary of State Dulles turning from a telescope trained on the Soviet earth satellite to remark to President Eisenhower:

"This calls for immediate extension of the Ike Doctrine to the moon."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Scientists of the astrophysical observatory of the Smithsonian Institution tracked the Russian satellite over the Boston area at 8:03 a. m. today.

The predicted time schedule called for it to make two more passes over the United States this morning—over Omaha, Neb. at 9:40 and over the Rocky Mountains some 250 miles northeast of San Francisco at 11:16.

The satellite won't make another passage over continental U. S. until after midnight tonight.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A high Navy satellite authority says the United States has a satellite "ready to put up right now."

The statement last night by Dr. Whitney Matthews of the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington said:

"We have a model which has been torturously tested for the last six weeks. It's been given much tougher tests than it will ever undergo in outer space."

Hints New Launching

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet newspaper hinted today Russia will launch a second satellite "more perfected than the existing one" on Nov. 7—40th anniversary of the Soviet Communist regime.

The hint came in the labor newspaper Trud in a dispatch from its London correspondent.

"The latest news," it said, "that satellite No. 2, more perfected than the existing one, will be launched in the stratosphere on the 40th anniversary of the great October revolution has been received with great interest by the entire public opinion of Great Britain.

"And soon flights will be possible to the moon, Mars and Venus."

There have been no reports in Moscow of such a project for that date.

Two visiting British members of Parliament quoted Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev as saying "we have even more things up our sleeves."

Conservatives Cyril Osborne and Capt. Henry Kerby talked for 80 minutes with the communist leader about the Soviet intercontinental ballistic missile and other subjects.

They said Khrushchev told them the missile is "only one of the many things we are doing. Our intercontinental ballistic rocket shows that it's no good sending humanly controlled machines against missiles. The age of bombers is over.

"This all points to the fact that we have even more things up our sleeves. You can't send human flesh and blood to fight things like that."

LONDON (AP)—The tabloid Daily Sketch carried a headline from outer space today — the up-and-down black lines of an oscilloscope recording of the Soviet Earth satellite's radio signal.

"Here is the highest headline ever written," the Sketch said.

Soviet Will Agree

we want the world to know that we have them."

Khrushchev added that he did not imply the Soviet Union is ahead in the development of all these weapons. He explained that the Soviets might be ahead on one thing today, but the United States would have it tomorrow and vice versa.

He termed such competition harmful and said the Soviets did not want it, that they wanted peace.

Navy Accepts Six For Enlistment

Five area young men and one young lady have enlisted in the Navy and are now undergoing recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. According to an announcement by Chief Quartermaster James Wingo of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Room 209, Central Post Office.

The men enlisted in September are: Charles W. Kellerhouse and Gary Clark, Saugerties, Martin J. Burke, 7 Staples Street; Harry Wong, 86 Bruyn Avenue, and William J. Surdakowski, of Ellenville. Carol Dona Sherman of New Paltz enlisted in the WAVES and is taking recruit training at the Naval Training Center in Bainbridge.

Following recruit training the local navy enlistees will be granted a fourteen days leave before reporting to their school and duty assignments.

Chief Wingo said, "Although current enlistment standards are high, the Navy is still accepting applications for immediate active duty, from young men of good character and background." High school graduates may have a choice of schools in the Fields of Electronics, Aviation, Hospital Corps, Nuclear Propulsion, or the general technical specialties.

The recruiters said, "Although the Navy prefers high school graduates, every man who enlists in the Navy has an opportunity to receive training in one of the Navy's more than 60 technical specialties."

Sally Slams in Spade Suit

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Sally Johnson of Westport, Conn., is another young lady who has moved into the group of the 10 best women players.

Sally started going after master points in 1955 and acquired exactly 300 by the end of 1956.

This summer was her first serious attempt at national competition and she picked up a second in the national mixed teams and third in the national open teams.

Sally's team was trailing in an important match in the open teams when she picked up a rockcrusher in the North seat. Her partner, Pedro Cabral of New York, opened one spade and Sally decided to take complete control. She checked for aces and kings and then bid seven spades.

There were two reasons why she chose spades instead of no-trump for the grand slam. The first was that her team was behind and that honors count in knockout team matches. Sally did not have honors at no-trump but she suspected that Pedro would have honors in spades. The second reason was that possibly there might be a better play in spades than in no-trump.

Sally was right on both counts. At no-trump there were twelve top tricks but the thirteenth depended on either a squeezer or a guess of the location of the heart queen.

At spades there was an additional play that came off. Pedro won the opening club lead and drew trumps. Then he played the ace and king of diamonds and trumped the four of diamonds. East had to drop his queen and jack so the ten spot of diamonds became his thirteenth trick.

Durante Probably To Return to TV In January Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Jimmy Durante was talking about New York while eating a breakfast of oatmeal and milk at one o'clock in the afternoon.

"When I get back here," he said, "I can't go to bed. An' then, because I can't go to bed, I can't get up. An 'when I do get up, what do I do? Maybe I go over to the East Side where I grew up an' try to find some old friends. But anymore I get lost over there. All I can find is new housing developments."

No Place Like N. Y.

He spooned some oatmeal and looked up.

"But," he said with emotion, "there's no place like New York. I love that rustle and bustle, that rush. You walk faster in New York, goin' I don't know where."

Durante is back in his home town after an absence of several months to appear next Sunday on a anniversary show over NBC-TV at 9 p. m., a special 90-minute variety program.

With Bert Lahr, he will do a new song entitled "My Girls Don't Want My Money, All They Want Is Me."

May Return

To the regret of many television viewers, Durante does not have his own program this season. But it's probable, he said, that he'll return in January with the same kind of show that enjoyed five years on the home screen.

"I'll tell you—" he put down his spoon— "The trouble when they start a new form like television, everybody wants to change it. An' I ask you, what is there to change? All that box there wants is entertainment.

"An' you tell me. Has Benny changed since he come on? Has Burns and Allen changed? Has Groucho Marx changed? Has Perry Como changed? I tell you, all that box wants is entertainment.

Easier Living There

After his NBC-TV show which stars such performers as Tyrone Power, Jane Powell, Marge and Gower Champion, Duke Ellington and Kay Thompson—Durante will return to California, his home for many years now. Why does he like Southern California?

"They take it easier there. When the breeze blows not even the leaves move."

Clipper Sea-Food Chowder Is Bracing Ocean Fare

WHAT HEARTY APPETITE wouldn't be aroused by these stout mugs of coffee and sea-food chowder—a fisherman's favorite?

BY GAYNOR MADDOX,
NEA Food and Markets Editor

From tuna boat to can to pot to food editors and now to readers of this column—tuna clipper sea-food chowder.

At the Newspaper Food Editors Conference in Chicago, the Tuna Research Foundation gave us a luncheon in the Drake Hotel ballroom. But the ballroom was hung with nets and cauldrons and tackle to resemble the galley of a tuna boat at sea.

Chowders are popular on these boats. Most of the recipes used by the chefs are of southern European origin — Portuguese, Italian or Yugoslavian. When chowder is on the menu, it is usually served with a bowl of green salad, bread and butter and mugs of coffee, also a bottle of red or white wine.

Tuna Clipper Sea-Food Chowder (6 servings)

One-half pound beets, pared and diced; 1½ cups water, 2 medium-sized carrots, sliced; 1 small onion, sliced; 1 cup chopped cabbage, ½ cup sliced celery, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 6½-ounce cans chunk-style tuna, drained; 4 beef bouillion cubes, 4½ cups water, salt and pepper to taste.

Combine beets and 1½ cups water. Cover and cook 30 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and cook over low heat 1 hour, or until vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally.

Note: One 1-pound can diced beets, not drained, may be substituted for ½ pound beets and 1½ cups water. Do not cook 30 minutes.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Tuna clipper sea-food chowder, bread sticks, fresh vegetable salad, oil and lemon juice dressing, apple pie, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Shirley Jones is a sweet, old-fashioned girl who doesn't want to spend the rest of her life acting like a sweet, old-fashioned girl.

Critics have hailed the Cinderella-like rise of the young film star, but Miss Jones herself definitely doesn't want to remain a Cinderella forever.

"I'm afraid too many people think I am nothing but a perpetual ingenue—able to play only saccharine roles," she said.

"But no human being is really that way. I want to be able to portray all the emotions of a normal girl living in the present part of the 20th century."

Won Two Important Roles

Shirley, a Smithton, Pa., brewer's daughter, has had only one small setback in her career. She failed to win a contest to represent her state in the "Miss America" beauty contest. But, after appearing in the Pittsburgh Civic Light Opera, she won star rank in two important Hollywood productions —"Oklahoma!" and "Carousel."

But was she to spend the rest of her life in crinolines? Some meanies were unkind enough to suggest that Miss Jones, although she had a wonderful voice, was a bit on the chubby side—and maybe the crinolines were a merciful favor.

She's Svelte

Shirley's answer was to diet down to a svelte 113 pounds (she's 5 feet 5) for her latest film, "April Love," co-starring Pat Boone. Only a born churl could find fault with her figure now.

The film is a rural harness racing epic and is perhaps most notable for the fact it contains no drug addicts or juvenile delinquency. Nobody even gets beat up in it, and even the horses are honest.

One of her goals is to appear in a stage show with her husband, Jack Cassidy, who is a veteran of 23 Broadway productions.

She and Cassidy, who have bought a home on the west coast, live quietly.

High Command Blame 'Illogical'

Chaplain Drury Lauds Loyalty to Van Buren

Msgr. Martin J. Drury, pastor of St. Mary's Church and a police department chaplain, today praised the department's loyalty to Chief Van Buren and avowed that criticism of the chief "for the unfortunate defections of a few" was illogical.

The monsignor, who is also Roman Catholic dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, told The Freeman he was "very much pleased" at the expression of loyalty of the Kingston police to their chief and high command.

Has Served 37 Years

At a meeting last Thursday night, the Kingston Patrolmen's Association struck at "unwarranted criticsim" of Chief Van Burean for laxity, and pointed out that he had served the city diligently for the past 37 years. The laxity charge of the chief and high command came from the grand jury probing police irregularities.

Msgr. Drury termed criticism of Chief Van Buren "illogical and unjustifiable," noting that the New York City Police Department — "probably the best supervised police organization in the country"— has produced irregularities "from time to time," but the high command of that department was never held responsible for those defections.

Msgr. Drury's letter follows:

"I was very much pleased to read in your paper of October 4 the expression of loyalty of the Kingston police to their Chief and high command. There has been much said about the lack of morale among the men of the department. This profession of loyalty on the part of the police to their Chief proves that the morale is high. The people of Kingston can be proud of their loyal police, who, under severe provocation have withstood the unjustified criticism, and in spite of it have continued to do their duty faithfully.

Rose Above Criticism

"Certainly the constant unfavorable criticism that has been hurled against them publicly time and time again for the last few months was enough to break down the morale of the men of any department. I am proud of the fact that in spite of it, the faithful members of the department rose above it and in the face of much provocation have stuck to their duties and ideals.

"To accuse the chief and high command of the police department as being responsible for the unfortunate defections of a few is to my mind most illogical and without any basis in fact. The New York City Police Department has probably the best organized, best disciplined and best supervised organization of police in the country, and in spite of that we know from the papers that from time to time there are defections among some of its members. Nobody has ever accused the high command of the police department of the City of New York of these defections, and why the chief and high command of the police department of Kingston should be so accused seems to me to be altogether illogical and unjustifiable. Whatever defections have occurred have been on the part of individuals and one can not expect that the high command can send out a lieutenant or a sergeant with every patrolman who is going on duty.

Majority Loyal

"The vast majority of the Kingston Police are loyal to their duty and can be depended upon to fulfill that duty. Certainly there should be discipline in the police department as well as in any other department, and for years back under the same chief there has never been any cause for criticism. That in itself is sufficient proof of the fact that the discipline in this department has actually existed and that throughout the years. Why these isolated and individual cases should be blamed on the chief and his command is beyond me. There is many a family well disciplined by the parents and in spite of it, from time to time it happens that one member of that family will run afoul of the law.

"No one blames the parents for lack of discipline because of these isolated cases, so why should the chief and his command be blamed for these isolated and individual cases on the part of some of the members of the department? It seems to me that to say that these unfortunate incidents would not have happened had there been discipline in the high command of the police department is a totally gratuitous assumption without any substantiating evidence being adduced to support it. It does not seem to me to be good logic.

Hopes for Continuation

"I join with the Patrolmen's Association in hoping that Chief Van Buren will continue to command the department for years to come. He has given the citizenry of Kingston splendid protection and that protection of its citizens is perfectly safe in his hands. The fact that the patrolmen of their own free will have banded together to publicly express their confidence in their chief is the very best evidence that there is nothing wrong with the morale of the Kingston Police Department. As I said once before, as one of the chaplains of the department, I am proud of these true, loyal guardians of our lives and property, and still have every confidence in them. I feel that the majority of fair-minded citizens of Kingston join me in this appraisal of the present situation."

Disaster Struck School Head's Integration Plan

(Editor's Note—For a time, it looked as if integration was coming to Little Rock quietly and peacefully. Then what happened? What turned a friendly southern city into a scene of violence? A reporter who saw the sudden switch explains what led to it in this second of five articles.)

By RELMAN MORIN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A more thoroughly angry, harassed and sorrowing man than Virgil T. Blossom would be hard to find today.

Blossom is superintendent of schools in Little Rock and architect of the "Little Rock plan" designed to integrate its schools.

He worked on it for three years, inching carefully toward a solution of the thousand-and-one problems. It was the hardest job of his life. Two months ago, he thought he had it licked.

Then came disaster.

Plan Up in Smoke

On the night of Sept. 2, the night before Central High reopened for the fall term, Gov. Orval Faubus suddenly put National Guardsmen around the high school. His orders —keep out Negroes.

The "Little Rock plan" went up the chimney.

What's more, it may never be salvaged. First, the federal courts answered Faubus. Then, President Eisenhower put steel in their rulings by the startling order that has brought federal troops to Arkansas.

Integration has taken place, in the sense that nine Negro children, under guard, are sitting in classes in the school.

But in the process, deep emotion has become polarized in two white-hot points.

Hence, Blossom's plan—a long-range plan—is certain to encounter resistance he thought had been dispelled.

Former School AD

Virgil Blossom is a big man.

He stands 6-feet-3, weighs 250 pounds, is a former director of athletics. He will be 51 this month. He is married and has two daughters, Bette Sue, 19, and Gail, 16. He was born in Brookfield, Mo.

The Capitol Citizens Council, a hard-core segregationist organization, likes to harp on the fact that Brookfield is "right next to the Iowa line." This, in their reasoning, makes Blossom a "Yankee," a foreigner who does not understand Arkansas, although he went to the University of Arkansas and has lived in the state more than 20 years.

Blossom pays no attention. He's a stubborn fighter.

With candid pride, he says of the plan he devised:

"It is airtight legally. It preserves educational standards for all students. And it is designed to maintain good community relations."

The essentials of the plan:

1. Phasing integration over an unspecified period of years. It begins with the high schools, then applies to junior high schools, and finally the primary grades.

2. Scheduling it in terms of finances, facilities, and problems that develop as the process moves forward.

It has a unique third feature. Any student, white or Negro, Negro, who by reason of his address would normally be assigned to a school where his race is in the minority, is permitted to go out of his district and enroll in one which has a majority of his race.

The result was interesting.

This fall, all 328 white students in the predominantly Negro area around Horace Mann High School elected to go to Central. Vice versa, of the 200 Negroes in the Central High area, 191 chose Horace Mann.

Only the "Little Rock Nine" applied for permission to enter the overwhelmingly white Central High.

As the planning went forward, Blossom was out talking to parents, teachers and civic groups, explaining it. He appeared more than 200 times. He answered questions, invited criticisms.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People twice challenged the "Little Rock plan" in the courts. The NAACP petitioned for total integration, at once, in all grades.

U. S. District Judge John E. Miller, ruling against the NAACP, approved the plan as it stood.

The NAACP challenged again last April and the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Miller and the school board.

Meanwhile, there were rumblings on the segregationist side.

Acts on Ballot

In the 1956 general elections, they put three anti-integration acts on the ballot. The proposals carried by 56 per cent in the state and by 52 per cent in Pulaski County, embracing Little Rock.

However, last March, Henry V. Rath and Wayne Upton—running on an out-and-out integrationist program—were elected by almost 2-1 majorities to the school board. One of the men defeated was Robert Brown, president of the Capitol Citizens Council.

On May 24, the school board announced that "the school year of 1957-58 may be the first phase of this (integration) program."

On Aug. 22, Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia made a speech in Little Rock. He said:

"Constitutional government would be dead if the South surrenders operation of her schools to the operations of the federal government. This issue is the issue that overshadows all other questions."

Pressure was building.

Finally, on the night of Sept. 2, Faubus made his move.

"The Little Rock plan" went on the shelf. But Blossom says today:

Hopeful of Future

"Integration is here and I think it's here to stay. The court order must be obeyed. I believe it will all work out."

Others disagree.

Tomorrow: The Riddle of Orval Faubus.

Justice Embarrassed

DENVER (AP)—The chief justice of Colorado's Supreme Court says lawyers ought to use simpler words and shorter sentences.

"I've got to use a dictionary in reading some of your legal briefs," O. Otto Moore told the Denver Bar Assn. yesterday. "And too much of that becomes embarrassing."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Going back to the Hudson-Fulton celebration at which time such books as "The Hudson" three centuries of history, romance and invention by Wallace Bruce were printed, it is a book that should draw interest at a time like this when the Hudson-Champlain celebration is contemplated.

Bruce does not let one forget that Verrazano entered the Narrows and harbor of the Hudson in 1524, and sailed far enough to see the outline of the Palisades; that Gomez visited its mouth in 1525; Cabot still earlier in 1498; and various Norsemen, named and nameless, for several centuries before them, coasted along the shore and indenture of the "River of the Manhattoes," but failed to acquire or transmit any knowledge of the river's real course or character, and it was left for Hendrick Hudson to be its first voyager and thereby to have and to hold against all comers the glory of discovery.

Bruce divides the Hudson River into five sections. First there are "The Palisades," an unbroken wall of rock for 15 miles, calling it 'Grandeur.'

The second, "the Tappan Zee," surrounded by the sloping hills of Nyack, Tarrytown, and Sleepy Hollow—'Repose.'

The third section are "The Highlands," where the Hudson for some 20 miles plays 'hide and seek' with 'hills rockribbed and ancient as the Sun,' sublimity' he calls it.

The fourth, he calls "The Hillsides" for miles above and below Poughkeepsie, that he considers, "The Picturesque.' And fifth of course are "the Catskills," on the west, throned in queenly dignity—he names the beauty of the Hudson.

He describes the Overlook Mountain as commanding an extensive view, with an area of 30,000 square miles, from the peaks of New Hampshire and the Green Mountains of Vermont to the hills of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. To the east, the valley reaches away with its towns and villages to the blue hills of Massachusetts and Connecticut, and through this beautiful valley, the Hudson for a hundred miles is reduced to a mere ribbon of light.

Woodstock, at the foot of the Overlook, is popular with summer visitors, and is a good starting point for the mountain outlook.

He writes about Livingston Manor. He says, the Livingstons were of Scotch ancestry and had an illustrious lineage. Mary Livingston, one of the 'four Marys' who attended Mary Queen of Scots during her childhood and education in France, was of the same family.

Robert Livingston, born in 1654, came to the Hudson Valley with his father, and in 1686 purchased from the Indians a tract of country reaching east 22 miles to the boundary of Massachusetts with river frontage of 12 miles. This purchase created, "The Lordship and Manor of Livingston," by Governor Thomas Dongan.

In 1692 Robert built the Manor House, but did not live in it for 20 years. He was a friend of Captain Kidd and a powerful promoter of his enterprises. The manor consisted of 260,000 acres.

The estate of 13,000 acres, given to his second son Robert, was called Clermont. Philip, his first son, inherited 247,000 acres, by old time primogeniture succession. Lafayette was a guest at the mansion during his visit to the United States in 1824.

'Beep' Era May Offer World New Ways to Blow Itself Up

By ED CREAGH
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here we were in the middle of the "beat" generation and now we find ourselves in the "beep" era. It is almost more than mortal man can bear.

Maybe you didn't know we've been "beat." That doesn't mean "defeated" or "all tuckered out," as well it might. It means we're hep. That we have the raw nerve exposed. That we feel the beat. Of the tom-toms, it may be. Or maybe just of our overtaxed hearts.

This may surprise those of us who can feel beat enough, without anybody's help, as we doze homeward on the 5:45 bus. But the "beat" generation has been getting a good deal of play lately in the highbrow publications. And the word has been seeping down to the rest of us.

Uusually you can't track down the source of an idea like this. But a San Francisco writer named Jack Kerouac publicly admits he coined the term "beat generation." He's the author of a big, shouting best-seller: "On the Road." Of the "beat generation," he says:

"This includes anyone from 15 to 55 who digs everything, man. . .Beat means beatitude, not beat up. You feel this, you feel it in a beat—In jazz—real cool jazz—or a good gutsy rock number. The beat generation loves everything, man."

This is us? "Beatitude," unless the dictionary has fallen behind the times, means "bliss" or "blessedness." Blissful we may be on occasion—when our bunions aren't bothering us, for instance—but blessed? The generation that invented the H-bomb: Who has blessed us lately?

But it's no use quibbling. Generations come and go. (So far, anyway; we've gone a long way toward making the present generation the last one.) It seems quite possible a new generation started when that Soviet moonlet began circling the globe, uttering its unearthly "beep. . .beep. . . beep."

It may be that most of us don't feel a bit different—just a mite more tired than yesterday, perhaps, a little less agile in hopping the 5:45 bus.

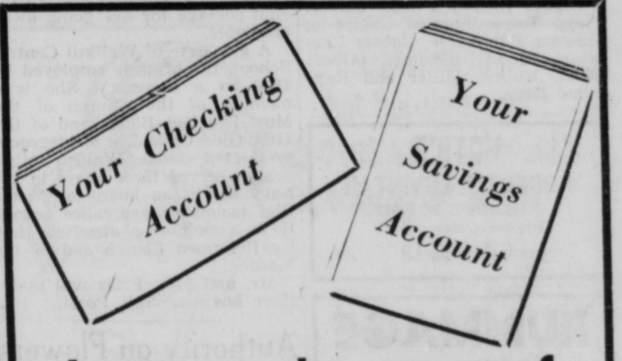

The "beep" generation may soar to the moon or even rocket to the stars. It may confound our geography and play duckpins without philosophy. It may—and this sounds like the best guess of all—provide us with new ways, as if we needed any, to blow ourselves up.

But has it changed us so far? It's taught us a new sound—a rather uninspiring "beep"—and it's given some of us a crick in the neck from looking upward, trying to spot the whatsis. But we still have to catch the 5:45.

AVOIDING AN ARGUMENT

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening I was with two friends who got into an argument about something. One of them turned to me and asked me who I thought was right. I don't like getting mixed up in other people's disagreements, but when asked point-blank to give my opinion I felt there was nothing to do but give it. I said that I thought Mary was right, whereupon the other friend became hurt because I did not agree with her. This is certainly an unpleasant spot in which to be placed and to make sure that I don't get involved again, will you please tell me how I can tactfully avoid taking sides?

Answer: Just say, "I refuse to take sides; you'll have to settle it yourselves"—and stick to it.

Flowers for a Funeral

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me what type of floral piece is proper to send to the funeral of a friend? I do not care for the conventional wreathes, pillows, etc., and usually send a basket of fresh flowers. However, I was criticized for this and told a basket of flowers is not proper. I should appreciate your opinion.

Answer: I personally usually send a sheaf of roses to a funeral. Cut flowers are appropriate to send to a bereaved friend, but are not usually sent to a funeral.

Unstamped Return Envelopes

Dear Mrs. Post: The invitations to my daughter's wedding were sent out several days ago. Reply cards were sent with the invitations. We did not however, put stamps on the return envelopes. A sister of mine has criticized this and said that guests will think we are pinching pennies. I am very much upset over this and would like to know if we should have put stamps on the envelopes.

Answer: You were correct in not putting stamps on the envelopes. It is not very courteous to suggest that guests require payment of 3 cents in order to tell you whether they will or will not accept your invitation.

Where should the reception for friends be held after the christening? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Varied Program Offered by Noted Organist In October 12 Concert at KHS Auditorium

Richard Leibert, famed organist at the Music Hall in Radio City, New York, and nationally known radio artist, who will appear in a concert at Kingston High School auditorium on October 12, will present a program to please all musical tastes.

The concert, which is sponsored by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, will benefit civic projects of the group. These include Jaycee Little League, Junior Golf, Junior Tennis, Junior bowling, winter sports, Soap Box Derby, Easter egg hunt, bike safety, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Junior Citizenship Awards, Voice of Democracy, Christmas Shopping Tour and Teen-age Road-e-o.

Plays Organ at 14

Dick Leibert was born in Bethlehem, Pa., and attended prep school at the Moravian.

His family moved to Washington, D. C. and it was here at the age of 14 that he started his career as a theatre organist at the Loew's. Shortly after, he won a scholarship to the Peabody Conservatory and continued his musical training there.

Mr. Leibert toured for the Loew's theatres and appeared in Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit, delighting audiences with his performances on the wonderful Wurlitzer installations in the Loew's theatres.

It was during his two years at the Brooklyn Paramount that he heard about the auditions for an organist for the gala opening and permanent post at the Radio City Music Hall. More than 12 top names auditioned; Mr. Leibert was the last to play. The auditioning committee always entertained the thought that it was his witty, completely improvised medley on all the tunes played by those who had preceded him that won the audition for him; his performances at the Music Hall were something to remember, and he soon became America's most popular organist.

Mr. Leibert now lives in Westport, Conn., is married, has four children and has the busiest of lives with TV, radio and concert appearances, sailing deep sea fishing and sports cars.

Program Offers Variety

Included on the program will be the following:

Toccata—Carl Marie Widor.

Kamenoi Ostrow—Anton Rubinstein.

Liebslied—Kreisler.

Valse Rhythmique — Richard Leibert.

Melody from "Madam Butterfly"—Puccini.

Gavotte—Bach.

Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring—Bach.

Preludium and Fugue in C Major—Bach.

Largo, from "Xerxes"—Bach.

Holiday for Strings — David Rose.

The program will also include the most popular selections of George Gershwin, Richard Rodger, Jerome Kern, and Cole Porter.

Mr. Leibert will also play his own compositions, "Come Dance With Me," and "In a Little Clock Shop."

The concert will begin at 8:15 p. m.

PLAN CARD PARTY—Mrs. Frederick H. Trinity Church Sector Project Committee Meets

A resume of the eight-step every member canvass of the sector project of Trinity Methodist Church was outlined by the Rev. Ralph E. Hughes, pastor at a meeting of the resource committte Sunday evening.

Francis E. Palen, chairman, described the function of the resource committee and its importance to the whole project. The filmstrip entitled "The Work of the Resource Committee" was shown.

Membership lists were distributed to those present, and the members of the committee attempted to evaluate the financial potential of the church. This particular committee meets only once to perform its integral part in the sector plan. A review committe is now working on these estimates to arrive at a potential figure for next year's budget.

The entire membership has already been contacted by general chairman Robert E. Hillis, in regard to the sector plan, and a letter will be arriving soon from the pastor describing progress of the work.

The next step in the planning is a congressional covered dish dinner Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 6:30 p. m., sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service. On that evening all of the members will be informed in greater detail about the proposals for next year and means for accomplishing them.

Two of Surviving Quints to Wed Soon

MONTREAL (AP) — Two of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets may be married before long, but whether Cecile or Annette will be first remains uncertain.

Cecile plans to marry Philippe Langlois, 26-year-old broadcasting technician, late next month. It was thought she would be the first of the 23-year-old sisters to wed.

But the girls' father, Oliva Dionne, said in North Bay, Ont., yesterday that another of the quints, Annette, and Germain Allard, 22-year-old Montreal University student, plan to marry Friday at Montreal. The father said Annette and Allard told him of their plans Sunday at the family home in Callander, Ont.

Allard commented in Montreal that he hopes to marry Annette but "it won't be Friday." He said they are not formally engaged, that he is still going to school.

MRS. JOHN F. HALLENBACK JR.
(Tom Reynolds photo)

On Saturday, Sept. 28, 10:30 a. m., in Our Lady of Loretta Church, Cold Spring, Miss Rosemarie Critelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Critelli of Cold Spring, became the bride of John F. Hallenback Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hallenback, Peekskill.

The Rev. William A. Gorman, assistant pastor, officiated at the ceremony.

Mrs. Edward Stamples was at the organ. Soloist for the occasion was Mrs. Roy Seeber.

The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Dulcette satin in princess style fashioned with a molded bodice, long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists and a "V" neckline banded with Alencon lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The floor length skirt featured a brush length train. A princess crown of starched lace trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins secured the French illusion chapel length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white fuji mums and ivy.

Miss Antoinette Critelli, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor in a gown of seafoam green silk taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice and a mezzanine length skirt. The Sabrina neckline was of draped emerald green taffeta flowing into a back panel tucked under the hemline in harem fashion. A tiny matching pillbox secured a circular tulle flirtation veil.

Dressed in the same styled gown as the honor attendant was Miss Nancy Silvestri, cousin of the bride, who served as bridesmaid. She carried a cascade bouquet of rust-colored mums and ivy. The honor attendant carried a cascade bouquet of maroon mums and ivy.

Roy Norby of Ossining was the best man. Ushers included Nicholas Critelli, brother of the bride and Charles Schroeder of Garrison.

A reception was held at The Bird in Garrison for approximately 150 guests.

The bride is a graduate of Haldane Central High School. Her husband, who attended Union College, Schenectady, is a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity. He served with the Signal Corps in Korea.

For her wedding trip to Canada, the bride wore a traveling ensemble consisting of a beige and white tweed wool dress with beige and white accessories.

The couple will make their home in Stamford, Conn. where the bridegroom is employed.

Pity the housewife (if you please) with dishpan hands and callused knees. She rises at the crack of dawn and then works on—and on—and on! She dusts and scrubs and cooks and sews. That's just a starter, heaven knows! For she must scurry to the store and tote home bundles by the score. And then, at noon, the kids rush in and lunch is served amid the din. The kids rush out—the housewife groans. Oh, to relax her weary bones! But soon she must be on her way to junior high—and P.T.A. She phones the denist, Dr. Bore, and makes a date for half past four. She feeds the dog, puts out the cat—finishes doing this and that. And then her husband phones: "My dear, a special meal tonight, I fear. I'm bringing home the boss with me. Have crepe suzettes and Oolong tea. Whip up a cake, dear, if you can. The boss is such a hungry man! This ought to be a cinch for you. You have so little workk to do." —Karl Flaster.

LA Council Votes For Dodgers to Move Westward

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles City Council has finally asked Walter O'Malley for the hand of his darling Brooklyn Dodgers.

The move that had been stewing since last May became a reality late yesterday afternoon when the council—over determined opposition—mustered the necessary 10 votes to transfer the Dodgers west.

In New York, O'Malley withheld comment, but his acceptance of the contract offered by the city was believed in the bag. The Dodger president has until Oct. 15 to make his decision.

4 Oppose Move

Four councilmen opposed the transfer to the very end of the tumultuous, six-hour session. All four said they want the Dodgers, but feel terms of the contract bringing them here are unfavorable to the city.

There was a threat from the camp of the four dissenters of trying to nullify the council action by placing the issue before the voters as a referendum.

Councilmen favoring the Dodger transfer gave this plan little chance of success. Such an election could not be held until next summer, they said, and besides, the city's residents are overwhelmingly in favor of bringing The Bums to Los Angeles.

Signatures Needed

To bring the issue to a vote, thousands of signatures would be required. The exact number would be determined by the size of the vote in the last municipal election.

Under terms of the contract, the Dodgers would play their games in 22,500 - seat Wrigley Field until O'Malley builds his team a 50,000-seat stadium on 300 acres of Chavez Ravine land deeded the Dodgers by the city.

Then O'Malley gives the city the 10-acre site of Wrigley Field, home of the Los Angeles Angels in the Pacific Coast League, which O'Malley picked up when he bought the Angel franchise last year.

TV Stars Plan Show For Sick Boy, 9

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A television show with a million-dollar cast goes on the air today for an audience of one—a sick little boy.

It will be just about the biggest birthday party a youngster ever had.

Today is the ninth birthday of "Little Boy Blue," who is seriously ill of muscular dystrophy in Lakeville, Mass., hospital. He is known to the public by that name only.

He was homeless and friendless when he became ill. His father is in prison for murdering his mother.

Comedian Jerry Lewis heard of an appeal for cards to ease the boy's loneliness. He decided "Little Boy Blue" ought to have more than cards and the idea snowballed.

Jerry, national chairman of the Muscular Dystrophy Assn., arranged for a closed television circuit linking NBC studios in Burbank, Calif., with the hospital room.

Performing just for "Little Boy Blue" and singing "Happy Birthday" will be Lewis, Eddie Fisher, Eddie Cantor, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Hugh (Wyatt Earp) O'Brian and Walt Disney's Mouseketeers.

The hospital said the boys illness is curable and the friendly attention has increased his chances for recovery.

Buhl, Turley To Hurl 6th

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Buhl, right handed pitcher, will hurl for the Milwaukee Braves in the sixth game, Manager Fred Haney said today. The Braves lead the New York Yankees, three games to two, and would win the best of seven series if they triumph tomorrow. The teams are idle today.

The game is scheduled for Yankee Stadium, starting at noon. Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees said yesterday that Bob Turley would be his choice in the sixth game. The same two hurlers were the starters in Saturday's contest in Milwaukee. It was won by the Yankees, 12-3, with both hurlers in the showers long before the end.

Yesterday, Lew Burdette pitched the Braves into the series lead for the first time by blanking the Yanks, 1-0.

The Yanks, their poise and confidence shaken for the first time in the series, now trail three games to two. Another jolt is Mickey Mantle's almost certain loss for the remaining games.

Haney said he was not able to say if Red Schoendienst, his star second baseman, would be able to play tomorrow. Schoendienst had to leave yesterday's contest because of a pulled muscle in his right groin.

Heat was being applied to the muscle today and the trainer instructed Schoendienst to take it easy.

Brockport Fire Loss $200,000

BROCKPORT (AP)—A roaring fire raced through a downtown department store today and damaged four other buildings. The loss was estimated at more than $200,000.

About 250 firemen fought the flames two hours before bringing them under control. Hundreds of spectators watched.

The J. J. Sobb store, a two-story frame and masonry building, was destroyed. Four apartment buildings with stores on the ground floor were damaged by flames and water.

No personal injuries were reported.

George Marks, first assistant fire chief, estimated the damage.

The cause was not determined immediately.

Cole Returning To Resign Seat In U. S. Congress

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), first director-general of the International Atomic Energy Agency, is returning to the United States to resign the Congressional seat he has held for 24 years.

Cole was sworn into his new four-year, $20,000-a-year post yesterday. Russian and other communist delegates who had opposed his election joined in the applause. They had contended it would have been better to elect a director-general from a "neutral" country.

In Washington, meanwhile, Cole's office announced that the 53-year-old Bath, N. Y., legislator would leave Congress Dec. 1. A successor will be chosen in a special election to be called by Gov. Harriman of New York, probably early next year.

Cole's legislative assistant, John T. Calkins, is an announced candidate for the Republican nomination for Cole's seat. Cole represents New York's 37th Congressional district, comprising Broome, Tioga, Chemung and Steuben counties.

Democrats have not selected a candidate.

In accepting the director-generalship, Cole pledged to help "bring the vast and perhaps unlimited blessings of atomic energy to humanity everywhere."

Cole is a member and former chairman of the Senate - House Atomic Energy Committee.

Distribution of the manual is being made to members of the legislature, public officials, newspapers, libraries, schools and colleges. The number published is 18,000; the demand always exceeds the supply. There are 1,205 pages in the 1957 edition. Craig, Quiz Challenger Tie Twice on Show

NEW YORK (AP)—Champion Harold Craig, 26, of Granville, and challenger David Mayer, 36, tied twice last night on NBC-TV's "Twenty-One" quiz.

Craig, a dairy farmer whose winnings have remained at $119,500 for three weeks, and Mayer, a New York City psychologist, will return next Monday for a showdown at $3,500 a point.

The pair answered questions on the 1920's and current events in one game last night and on World War I and world cities in the second game. Craig and Mayer had tied four other times.

Next week Craig's winnings could soar as high as $193,000 or drop as low as $46,000.

Red Leader Flees

SAN MARINO (AP)—A leader of San Marino's Communist Party fled the country today and reportedly appealed to his Red comrades to lay down their arms.

He is Egidio Belisardi, an Italian Communist who became head of the Red-controlled San Marino labor union. He is a member of the executive committee of San Marino's Communist Party.

He and his wife were seen at the steel mill at the edge of this little country where anti-Communists have established a government in opposition to the 14-year-old Red regime. Later they left for the Italian town of Rimini, 15 miles away.

Senate Probers Seek Teamster Election Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate rackets investigators said today they hope to establish tomorrow how many Teamster union election documents have been salvaged from a hotel incinerator.

James R. Hoffa, elected Teamster president in Miami last Friday, said he understood all the papers have been found and forwarded here.

However, Robert F. Kennedy, chief committee counsel said a union attorney had told him that he knew some of the documents "were gone" but didn't know how many were missing.

The documents were subpoenaed by the committee immediately after Hoffa's election, in a sequel to charges that the balloting had been rigged to assure his victory in the face of corruption charges against him.

The subpoena directed Joe Konowe, secretary of the convention credentials committee, to produce all documents relating to the seating of delegates and the election of officers.

Fighting Erupts Fifth Night in Warsaw Streets

WARSAW (AP)— For the fifth straight night, street fighting broke out in this Communist capital, but the anti-government demonstrators had dwindled from a mass student protest to a small crowd sparked by rowdies.

About 100 riot police charged last night's jeering crowd of about 1,000 with clubs after a teen-age gang set a wooden flower kiosk afire. Forty persons were reported arrested in the clash outside the Warsaw Palace of Culture.

The disorders began last Thursday night, when police broke up a university student demonstration against closure of the student newspaper Po Prostu for criticizing the Communist government. After another clash Friday night, organized students took no further part and rowdies moved in.

France Is Divided OnPlevenChances

PARIS (AP) — Premier-designate Rene Pleven plunged today into the ritual round of political talks that mark every French cabinet crisis. Opinions were divided on whether he might succeed in forming a government.

Nine days ago Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury was defeated on a confidence vote on his bill to give home rule to Algeria. He continued as caretaker premier while Socialist Guy Mollet took a 48-hour canter around the political course and decided he hadn't a hope of winning.

Pleven is the first candidate with the avowed intention of getting a cabinet together and ending the crisis.

Setting up office in the ministry of public works, Pleven first saw Mollet and Bourges - Maunoury last night. Today he called in Robert Lacoste, resident minister in Algiers, and outgoing finance minister Felix Gaillard.

He was to meet later with party delegations.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Peggie Castle is back from Rome with reports of a new Mario Lanza —or is he?

Peggie went to Europe last summer to visit her husband, an MGM location manager. The day she arrived, she received a hurry-up call to report to Rome to appear with Lanza in "The Seven Hills of Rome." She did, and it was an experience.

Smooth at First

"For the first three weeks, everything went smoothly," she remarked. "Mario was just a doll, and I thought all those reports I had heard about his temperament were false rumors.

"Then it go hot. And oh, can Rome in the summer get hot! One day it was 138 degrees in front of the camera. We couldn't have takes more than 30 or 40 seconds long or we'd be dripping.

"Mario heard that one of the other studios had air conditioners. He asked the head of our studio to get one. It was refused. One day on the set, Mario said 'this is ridiculous,' and he started tearing off his clothes. He kept on, right down to his shorts.

"I must say I was on his side. He proved his point. We got the air conditioner."

The singer's gift for the salty phrase is still in evidence, Peggie reported. But she learned how to handle him.

Can't Seemed Shocked

"The only thing to do is not react," she reasoned. "If you appear shocked, you're a goner. So when he came out with a lusty passage, I'd just act as though he had said, 'Hello. How are you' or something equally innocuous. It worked."

Mario's weight problems, which haunted him and MGM during his stormy career at the studio, are with him yet, Peggie said. When they started the picture, he was in fighting trim—as slender as he ever becomes. But then—

"Mario has a fantastic ability to put on and take off weight," she said. "He does it almost before your very eyes. He can easily put on 45 pounds in a week. Then he can diet and take off 20 pounds in two days. At one time, he was on a 500 calorie diet—nothing much more than a handful of shrimp a day.

Mario Rare Case

"His doctor explained that Mario was a rare case. His tissues retain moisture. So he can swell up like a balloon overnight, and deflate just as rapidly.

"It's too bad, because he has such a beautiful face when he is slim. But it's lost when he gets bloated."

Police Sort Clues

BUFFALO (AP) — Police sorted clues today, hoping to find a lead to the thieves who cracked a safe and stole over $15,000 from a department store in suburban De-Pew over the weekend.

Police said the thieves chopped a hole in the roof of the building then battered open a 1000-lb safe.

Louis Battaglia, treasurer of the Twin Fair Inc., said $15,839 was stolen—most of it receipts from Friday and Saturday.

Highland High Early Season Grid Surprise

Relyea Gridders Are Undefeated

Highland High ranks as the early season surprise football team hereabouts.

After three weekends of action, Coach Bob Relyea's legion stands atop the Dutchess County Scholastic League (DCSL) with a spotless 3-0 record. This weekend they travel to New City to take on Clarkstown Central in non-league play.

Relyea has done a remarkable job with an inexperienced bunch. Among his 45-man or so squad, only four are seniors and five juniors.

Highland owns impressive wins over Roosevelt, Beacon and Saugerties. Each success has been progressively better. The last was a whopping 32-0 licking of the Sawyers.

Rondout Flying High

Rondout VValley Central is another team which has caused some eye-brow raising with its lofty perch. Currently sharing the top spot in the UCAL with New Paltz, Coach Chick Meehan's gridders are 3-0 overall.

Meehan is noted for getting the most mileage out of what he has available. This year is typical. He had less than 30 reporting at the Kerhonkson school but is undefeated in his first year of 11-man grid.

In the DUSO, Poughkeepsie has caused a mild furore with two straight wins, although both have been against clubs figured to be low in the standings.

Pioneers After Upset

The Pioneers can really stir things up Saturday with a victory over all-winning Kingston High at the Bridge City. The defending champion Maroons beat Port in their lone DUSO effort and stand second.

All told, there is a thin slate of four games in the three leagues Saturday. In addition to the Poughkeepsie-Kingston joust, other engagements listed are Onteora at Wallkill, Roosevelt versus Arlington at Riverview field, Poughkeepsie, and Wappingers Falls at Beacon.

Onteora will be tested in the loop for the initial time. Coach Ed Witko appears to have his best team ever at the Boiceville school. His charges have sharpened up against Cornwall and Hunter-Tannersville and look ready.

Sawyers in Arclighter

Saugerties will try to bounce back against Liberty in an arclighter at Cantine Field Friday. The Sawyers have taken successive tannings at the hands of Arlington and Highland and Coach Bill Straub has been rumored promising wholesale changes among his regulars.

Port Jervis and Newburgh also are slated for non-loop tussles. The Goldbacks are at Nott Terrace under the lights Friday while the Red Raiders host New York Military Academy Saturday.

New Paltz and Pawling round out the schedule at the Paltz field.

MAINSTAYS IN BRAVES' VICTORY—Three stars of Milwaukee Braves are pictured in dressing room after 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees in the fifth game of the World Series Oct. 7 in Milwaukee. Yanks, Down to Braves 3-2, in Deep Trouble

NEW YORK (AP)—The proud and haughty New York Yankees today were in their worst position since they bowed to the Brooklyn Dodgers in seven games in the 1955 World Series.

Their poise and confidence shaken for the first time in the series, following yesterday's twin jolt to the chin—the knowledge of Mickey Mantle's almost certain loss and Whitey Ford's paralyzing 1-0 defeat by Milwaukee—the Yankees find themselves in the distasteful position where one more loss will end their world championship reign. The Braves' triumph yesterday gave them a 3-2 lead in the series.

The Yankees' only comfort can be gleaned from the schedule, which calls for a day off today. Although Manager Casey Stengel is frankly pessimistic about Mantle's avilability for tomorrow's sixth game, he is hoping against hope that his top slugger's sore shoulder mends sufficiently to enable him to swing a bat.

Injured Saturday

Mantle actually hurt his right shoulder in the first inning of Saturday's game when Red Schoendienst fell on top of him trying to flag down pitcher Bob Buhl's throw in an unsuccessful attempt to pick Mickey off second. Hardly anyone realized Mantle was hurt, even when he was held hitless by Warren Spahn on Sunday. But yesterday, just before game time, Stengel announced he was withdrawing the Oklahoma strong boy from the starting line-up.

Stengel explained that the Mick's shoulder had stiffened considerably and it hurt him when he swung a bat. "As for throwing," Stengel added, "he can't do that at all." Mantle did get into the game yesterday, but only as a pinch runner, in the eighth inning, and was promptly cut down trying to steal second.

The Yankees received a taste yesterday of what it is like without the bludgeoning bat of Mantle when they were held to seven hits by Lew Burdette (nothing longer than a single), as Ford lost the heartbreaker to Milwaukee. Whitey himself yielded only six hits, but three of them came in one inning—the sixth—to account for the only run of the game and result in Burdette's second victory over the Yankees in the series. Ford had beaten the Braves in the opener 3-1 on five hits.

Turley vs. Buhl

Tomorrow's sixth game—the do-or-die game for the Yankees—will pit New York's Bob Turley against Milwaukee's Bob Buhl in a duel of righthanders at Yankee Stadium. If the Yankees should win, the finale will probably find Don Larsen of the Yankees opposing Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, in his third start of the series.

Stengel's nomination of Turley is a surprise. The fireballer failed to last two innings in Saturday's third game. Bob also pitched a strong relief inning yesterday, retiring three Braves on 10 pitches, two of them via strikeouts.

For Buhl, it also will be his second series start. The speedball hurler from Saginaw, Mich., fared even worse than Turley in Saturday's game, which resulted in the most lopsided score of the series, a 12-3 Yankee rout of the Braves. Buhl faced exactly six batters before he got the hook from Manager Fred Haney.

Haney was not without his worries. He is resigned to the loss of Red Schoendienst, his brilliant second baseman, who will be lost for the rest of the series with a pulled groin muscle. The team's veteran spark plug suffered the injury in the second inning of yesterday's game when he tried unsuccessfully to stop Slaughter's ground single from rolling into center field.

Despite Schoendienst's dexterity around second base, he'll be missed only at the plate, because Felix Mantilla, who replaced him yesterday, is a superb gloveman. He proved it by making a particularly fine play to take a base hit away from Jerry Coleman in the fifth.

Covington's Play Tops

The best defensive play, however, was made by left fielder Wes Covington, who robbed McDougald of a possible home run in the fourth with a leaping catch of Gil's drive to deep left. Covington raced back, leaped up into the air, and crashed into the low fence upon coming down, but he held on to the ball to provide the capacity County Stadium crowd of 45,811 with their first big thrill.

The partisan crowd's biggest thrill, however, came in the sixth. Ford and Burdette were locked up in a real pitching duel. Neither side had been able to push a runner as far as third base. The Yankees had touched Burdette for four hits and the Braves had gotten only three off Ford.

Whitey retired the first two Braves in the sixth. Then came the big break. Eddie Mathews hit a slow chopper to the right side. Coleman, usually an alert fielder, waited for the ball to bounce to him instead of charging in for the short hop. By the time he could get the ball and whip it to first, Mathews was across the bag with an infield single. Henry Aaron followed with a bloop single to right that dropped between Coleman and right fielder Hank Bauer, Mathews racing to third. Adcock, whose bat had been practically muted in the four previous games, came through with a line single to right, and Mathews romped across the plate with the only run of the game.

Series Notes

By JERRY LISKA

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee bade its beloeved Braves "Auf Wiedersehn", fully confident they'll bring back a World Series championship from New York.

Leading the series 3 to 2 after Lew Burdette's masterful 1-0 shutout of the Yankees yesterday, the Braves, with the Yanks, had moved to New York for a rest today before hooking up in the Series' sixth game tomorrow. More than 2,000 Braves fans cheered the takeoff of the Milwaukee team's plane on the eastern flight.

The feeling in this beer capital of America was that "the Yankees is dead" without injured Mickey Mantle and with yesterday's failure by Whitey Ford, who won the series opener Oct. 2.

This was not a sharp Yankee team which 45,811 Milwaukee fans watched surrender in a hot mound duel in the windup of the historic three-game debut of the World Series in this center of baseball madness.

Fielding Lapse Costly

The fan-in-the-street conceded that Jerry Coleman had a fielding lapse on Ed Mathews' bounder, which became the only run of the game.

But Milwaukee partisans also made much of the fact that New York's big guns were spiked by Burdette when the chips were down.

That came in the final two innings. Elston Howard, who the previous day had blasted a three-run homer to delay a 7-5 Milwaukee triumph, was called out on Burdette's best strike of the game in the eighth. The next batter, Hank Bauer, swung and missed to help inch-runner Mantle try to steal second. But Brave catcher Del Crandall's throw nailed Mantle to end the inning.

Then came the ninth. Burdette struck out Bauer on four pitches. He fanned Tony Kubek on three pitches. Burdette's first pitch to Gil McDougald was lashed into center for a single. But the old Yankee menace didn't develop. Dangerous Yogi Berra popped to Ed Mathews and the ball game was ended as County Stadium rocked from the roar of the hilarious crowd.

Although yesterday was a work day in this industrious town, there was almost as much hootin' and hollerin' in downtown Milwaukee after the game as there was after Sunday's thrilling 7-5 Braves' triumph. Auto horns kept blasting most of the evening.

Milwaukee's Bob Buhl, who has an 18.00 earned run average from his ill-fated start against the Yankees in Saturday's third game, indirectly struck a hard blow against New York. It was on Buhl's wild pickoff toss to second that Mantle and Brave second-sacker Red Schoendienst tangled, with the star Yankee centerfielder throwing a standup "block" which ruined his shoulder.

Hazle Forgotten Man

Bob (Hurricane) Hazle, the rookie who turned the tide for the Braves in the regular season, is the series' forgotten man. Hazle has played in only two games and is hitless in six trips. Right-handed hitting Andy Pafko, 36, got the call in Hazle's right field spot against Lefty Ford yesterday and did well. Playing in his third World Series, Andy combed Ford for two singles and turned in a great catch of Gil McDougald's first inning liner.

Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney, who receives many letters from well-meaning fans with all sorts of suggestions for improvement, got a dandy from a Palmyra, N. Y., fan. "Your hitters are standing one quarter to one half inch too deep in the batter's box," the letter said. "You can't see it from the dugout, but I can on television. I suggest you do something about it."

Three Years Left

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., (AP)—Jim Schuler, University of North Carolina halfback, may be a junior but he still has three years of football eligibility. The resident of High Point, N. C., transferred to UNC last year from the University of Washington when his family moved to this state.

Ailing Campbell Continues Trying

SYRACUSE (AP)—Donald Campbell took another spin on Onondaga Lake in his jet-powered hydroplane yesterday even though, he said, he was ill with flu.

Several hours after he announced that he was temporarily suspending plans to try and break his world water speed mark of 225.63 miles an hour, Campbell skimmed over the glass-smooth lake at 150 miles an hour.

Afterward, he said his boat, the powerful Bluebird II, still had a roll that developed Saturday.

Campbell had said earlier in the day that he was ill with flu.

His permit for speed runs on Onondaga Lake expires Saturday.

Two Goal Line Stands

Maroon Frosh Hold Off Arlington for 7-6 Win

Two tremendous goal line stands in the final period thwarted Arlington High and enabled Kingston High's freshmen football team to post a 7-6 victory yesterday at Arlington.

The stout Maroon line repulsed the Dutchess gridders twice inside the three yard line to preserve KHS's first triumph of the campaign.

Arlington stormed the local's goal line early in the final chapter, but KHS held for four downs on the three and then Dave Mannelo punted out of danger. The thrust was set up by a sparkling 40 yard run to the 10. Halfback Rich Sickler saved the bacon by hauling down the AHS's runner from the rear.

Key Tackle

Center Sonny Bunce was the hero of the second goal line stand. He broke through for a crunching tackle that stopped an Arlington back cold and enabled KHS to take over the ball. The locals then marched up field and ran out the clock.

All the scoring came in the second period. Arlington struck first on a weird play which caught KHS napping. The Dutchess gridmen hustled up to the line of scrimmage and lined up on one side of the center. One of their backs took a quick snap and ran 50 yards to paydirt. Arlington tried to rush for the extra point, but its runner was smeared.

75-Yard March

Kingston took the kickoff and paraded 75 yards to knot it. Sickler's 25 yard sprint was the big gainer. Bob Cross picked up another 18 yards on a run and Joe Uhl clicked off a couple of five-yarders in the march which consumed 12 plays. Uhl bolted across from the four on a cross buck.

Sickler scored what proved later to be the deciding point when he went over for the extra point on a quarterback sneak.

Kingston held Arlington to just two first downs while the Maroons racked up eight. The big story was the line play of the Maroon forwards who also sparkled in last week's 7-7 tie against Newburgh in the opener.

Coach Jack Gilligan was pleased by another scintillating performance by the line. 'Now if we can punch the ball over, we'll be okay,' he said.

'I thought Smeles did a tremendous job calling the plays,' Gilligan added. 'He was on his own. I didn't send in more than four or five plays.'

The Maroon mentor also praised the puting of Mannello who was forced into action due to an injury to his regular punted.

The Kingston lineup:
Center, Bunce

61 Buses Needed To Carry Cadets To Philadelphia

WEST POINT, Oct. — The largest movement by bus in the history of the United States Corps of Cadets will take place Saturday morning, October 12, when the Corps travels to Philadelphia, Pa., for the Army-Notre Dame football game.

The 2,300 Cadets will be transported in 61 buses and the 156-mile trip is expected to take five hours. This is also believed to be one of the largest troop movements in the Army by commercial bus over this distance.

The Corps, along with the United States Military Academy Band, will arrive at Municipal Stadium at 11:50 a. m. and march onto the field at one o'clock.

Jimmy Gibson, Carol Dykes Top Woodstock Horse Show

Seven-year-old Jimmy Gibson, the youngest participant in the second Junior Riding Day program, captured the top prize Sunday at the Woodstock Riding Club event at the Ohayo Mountain Ring.

The Woodstock boy was presented a sterling silver plate for showing the best deportment in the ring while mounted on his pony, Babe. The youth entered almost all the 12 classes and showed good sportsmanship, patience and determination.

Carol Dykes of Kingston piled up 29 points for the top score of the day. Sus Jurgensen was a close second with 26, but still leads in overall points for the two events with 51. Carol's total now stands at 45.

The final winner will be determined Sunday, Oct. 27, which will mark the last program of the season. Several other riders are in contention for the final prize which will be a sterling silver plate.

One Real Spill

The only real spill occurred in the Obedience Class when Bonnie Kaiser on Patches and Sus Jurgensen on Chico collided and Bonnie was thrown from her horse. Neither girl was injured. They were riding it out for second place on a fast lope down the center of the ring when a sudden stop caused the upset. Bonnie was awarded second place in the event.

Mrs. William Kay of Salt Point and Donald Sheldon of Hyde Park, registered judges from the American Horse Shows Association, supervised the activities. They were assisted by Victor Blair of Hyde Park.

The judges commended the 32 padticipants for their excellent show of sportsmanship and deportment. "The day has been marked by keen competition," said Sheldon. "It's a pleasure to work with these young people because they are such good sports, win or lose."

Six ribbons were awarded in each event, in the order listed:

Former Canadian Ring Champ Dead

HOOSICK FALLS (AP) — Leo Gates, 57, one-time holder of the Canadian heavyweight boxing championship, died last night at his home after a long illness.

Gates, a native of North Adams, Mass., began boxing in 1920. He retired after his knockout in 1928 by Jack Sharkey, later a heavyweight champion of the world.

Gates listed among his opponents Johnny Risko, Young Stribling, Tiger Flowers, Jack Renault and Jack Delaney.

He moved to this Rensselaer County village in 1949 after his retirement from the New York City police force.

Smudge, Bouncer Aid Braves Twice

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sunday, a smudge of shoe polish.

Yesterday, a slow bounding ball about 15 feet wide of first base.

Both, at the time, seemed insignificant.

But both helped the Braves to a pair of victories over the Yankees in the World Series.

The smudge enabled Nippy Jones to prove he had been nicked by a pitched ball and thus opened the gates for the Braves' 10th inning rally and 7-5 victory Sunday.

The bouncer, handled cleanly, if not fast enough by second baseman Gerry Coleman, set up the only run of the fifth game and led to a 1-0 decision for Lew Burdette and the Braves.

Mathews Beats Throw

Eddie Mathews hit the ball with two out in the sixth inning and beat it out on a close play at first. Singles by Hank Aaron and Joe Adcock moved Mathews around with the run that gave the Braves a 3 to 2 edge in the series.

"I blew it," Coleman said afterwards in the Yankees' clubhouse.

"I played it badly," he added, refusing to accept refuge in the well intentioned alibis proffered by some of the writers. "I should have taken one step in. He fooled me with his speed. He should have been out."

Mathews hustled for the basehit, pure and simple. He said he figured he could beat it out when he saw Coleman playing back on the grass.

"I had to take a little lunge but I knew I was safe. It was a tough play for Coleman," he said.

Saban Hits 503 Triple

Betty Saban, the hello girl for The Daily Freeman, achieved a milestone in her bowling career last night when she compiled a 503 triple in the Ferraro Women's Junior Major.

Mrs. Saban put together games of 162, 165 and 176 for 503 the first five-hundred series of her league career. The historic event unfolded on alleys 9 and 10 at the Bowlerama.

By coincidence, Mrs. Saban was enjoying an off day today and was at home accepting congratulatory messages and gifts. She would like to hear from all her friends who doubted she would ever climb to the rarified heights of "500."

Other Scores

Elsewhere in the league, Dot La Rocca posted 485, Mildred Mackey 415, Barbara Sichel 454, Joan B. Grant 417, Ethel Henderson 479, Gert Gallagher 437, Pat Hayman 429, Adeline Ferraro 424, Lorraine Ferraro 458 Shirley Carlino 450, Alberta Ickes 412, Dottie Nissen 439, Eleanor Werbalowsky 407.

The most unlikely incidents to recall about a honeymoon, even a belated one, would be a couple of wakes you attended along the way.

They buried our bachlerhood on Sept. 28 and the next day, you will recall, they buried the New York Giants. It was a busman's holiday, to be sure, and hardly the gallant thing to do to a new bride, but there we were in the Polo Grounds.

Several hundred thousand Giant rooters missed the dreary finale beneath Coogan's Bluff. Eleven thousand or so managed to make the final obsequies, including several Kingston partisans of the McGravian legend. Certainly, Bob Tierney must have been among them. George Beichert, who is plotting the transfer of the Cincinnati Redlegs to New York; Herb Van Deusen were some of the others.

Sitting right below us was S. James Matthews, rooting as though the Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates were in the final game of a playoff for the National League pennant. James' enthusiasm was matched only by what must have been a tremendous letdown when he walked out of the Polo Grounds for perhaps the last time.

The ball game was a farce. The Giants played like they were in a hurry to get away from it all. There was a nice blend of sentiment and old lace in the pre-game ceremonies when Giant greats of yesteryear took their bows and Mrs. John McGraw wept openly. Within a few short hours, in a bright autumnal setting, the New York Giants of baseball legend ceased to exist.

We kept a running boxscore of the game and if any Giant fan would like to have it as a souvenir, it's yours for the asking.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

If you're wondering about the second wake, that occurred Wednesday, Oct. 2, at Yankee Stadium. Whitey Ford beat the Milwaukee Braves in the World Series opener but here was a game that had to rate as one of the dullest Series inaugurals on record. The tempo of the post-season classic has picked up since then, you know. . . Congratulations to Evelyn Gross for a whopping 680 series rolled while we were away. The blast rates as one of the highest in local distaff history. . . Poughkeepsie High is represented by Dan Dahowski, class of 1959, and Bill Lenehan (1961) on the Hobart College eleven. Tom Schopinsky, ex-Marlboro Central harrier, completed the fall season with Cobleskill Aggies. . . If Bill Thomas is serious about retiring from the Little League scene, the small fry sport will lose one of its finest workers over the years. John J. Meyer, former Kingston High school player, is the starting tackle with Brockport State Teachers. John, a 5 feet 11, 200-pound junior, is among 13 returning lettermen. Brockport was 4-4 in 1956.

• Of Men and Mice:

The day before we left town Irving Kauder, the New Paltz prize chicken breeder, was telling anyone who would listen he didn't have an iota of a chance in the Twaalfskill Pro-Member tournament. You know what happened, of course. He won it with Jim Farina two days later. . . Woodstock Country Club stages its President's Dinner Saturday night at Deanie's. . . Wiltwyck Country Club awards seasonal prizes at the Trophy Dinner on Oct. 19 and the Wiltwyck ladies are staging their final formal competition of the season tomorrow. . . A tip of the hat to Ted Musialkiewicz for his excellent job as leader of the Town of Ulster Little League. A note for horse lovers: Argentina will be represented for the first time in the National Horse Show, Nov. 5-12, at Madison Square Garden. New York Knickerbockers and Syracuse Nationals will play a pre-season exhibition at the new Poughkeepsie High School gym Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 8 p. m.

• An Idea About Deer:

Francis J. Schilling, who migrated from the basketball arena to the great outdoors, proposes a solution to the doe-deer vs. farmer-landowner problem that is sure to reach a sizzling climax with the forthcoming anterless season in New York.

"Obviously, the one or more days open season on does is not the answer," he writes. "Every farmer will post his lands, heretofore not posted."

Schilling offers the following suggestion: Have the Conservation Department send out or hire reliable men to shoot off some of the surplus doe before the rutting season, and turn over the meat to hospitals, institutions, homes for aged, etc., any public or semi-public institutions. The hides could be recovered and help pay for the hiring of competent guides with a sense of responsibility. No farmer will object to properly authorized deputies going on his land for herd control work. What do you think?

Hawks Play Leafs In NHL Opener

MONTREAL (AP)—The National Hockey League faces off for its 41st season tonight with indications that annual forecasts of a mad scramble for top placings may turn out more factual than proverbial.

Despite wholesale player-swaps since last season, there is fairly general agreement that the strengthened Chicago Black Hawks not only will climb out of the cellar but should barge into select company as one of the four playoff teams.

There is also a feeling that the Montreal Canadiens will finish first and regain the NHL title they surrendered to the Detroit Red Wings last season.

Hawks vs. Leafs

The question-mark Black Hawks themselves usher in the season in the only game scheduled tonight when they play host to the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The biggest acquisitions by the Hawks since last season are left-winger Ted Lindsay and goalie Glen Hall from Detroit, both of whom achieved All-Star rating. The Hawks have also acquired defenseman Jim Thompson from Toronto and forward Ron Murphy from the New York Rangers.

The Detroit Red Wings and the New York Rangers open in Detroit Thursday, Boston begins operations Saturday entertaining the Black Hawks, while on the same night Montreal launches its season against the Rangers on home ice.

Wiswall Through As Trot Driver

SARATOGA SPRINGS (AP) — Frank L. Wiswall, chairman of the U. S. Trotting Assn., is through as a harness horse driver and trainer.

Wiswall, 62, announced his retirement last night. At the same time he said he would sell his Runnymede Farm Racing Stable, made up of 18 trotters and pacers.

He said, however, he would continue to operate Runnymede Farm near here as a breeding farm for standardbred horses.

Wiswall, who also is president of Saratoga Raceway, said ill health forced him to cut down on his activities.

He said he no longer was permitted to race at Saratoga and that he was "not free to race them (horses) elsewhere" because of his Raceway responsibilities.

George P. Monaghan, state harness racing commissioner, ruled last year that track officials could not compete in races on their own tracks.

Wiswall has been training and driving harness horses as an amateur for 30 years.

"The fun has gone out of it," he commented when announcing his retirement.

Wiswall will put his horses up for sale Saturday morning.

Warriors, Due Here Oct. 21, Stress Defense in Training

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 8—The Philadelphia Warriors of the NBA, scheduled to play the Syracuse Nationals in Kingston on Monday, Oct. 21, will place greater stress on defensive play in their remaining camp workouts and scrimmages, according to a plan set up by Coach George Senesky.

As he pointed out in a talk to the squad before the start of scrimmage sessions Monday, the club led the National Basketball Association in field goal percentage last season, but on too many occasions, they let the opposition in for easy shots.

No Cheap Baskets

"We're going back to defensive fundamentals," Senesky said. "We're going to try and get our men to help out each other, pick up loose men and switch better. We're going to make the other team work harder for their baskets."

Along that line, Senesky is looking to rookie Woody Sauldsberry and eventual Army returnee Tom Gola to bolster that department. Sauldsberry, a 6-7 newcomer who had two years' experience with the Harlem Globetrotters, has shown up well in the workouts to date. Senesky figures Sauldsberry can help Joe Graboski and Neil Johnston in their dueling with the other big men in the NBA. At the same time, the newcomer should help in the rebounding department where the Warriors finished 600 behind the championship Boston Celtics.

Gola's value, both on defense and offense, was proved in his rookie season two years ago. Playing largely in the backcourt, he nevertheless was a good man on the defensive boards.
